What is a handbook?
The handbook is an official publication and an essential guide for every student who studies at the University of Sydney. It is an important source of enrolment information. It can also help you with more than just planning your course of study.

As a student at the University of Sydney you need to be aware of course structures and content, who your lecturers are, as well as examination procedures. You should also become familiar with University policies and faculty rules and regulations. The handbook will supply a lot of this information.

It will also point you to places and people around the University who can help you with enquiries about library loans, childcare, fees, casual employment, places to eat and stay, support groups and much, much more.

What new students need to know
- terminology used for courses and programs of study
- semester dates and examination periods
- important contact details
- how to plan your study program
- rules and policies on assessment, satisfactory progression, honours etc.
- what University services are available and where to find them
- how to get around your campus

At the beginning of many of these chapters there will be explanations to help you proceed further.

Where to find what

Course terminology
University terminology – like ‘credit point’, ‘unit of study’, ‘WAM’ etc – can be found at the back of all handbooks.

Definitions of all terminology are located in the General University information section under Abbreviations and Glossary, at the back of this handbook.

Dates
The start and finish dates of semester can be found in the front section of the handbook. Summer School dates are in the General University section at the back of the handbook.

For Block Mode course dates please contact the Koori Centre directly.

Contents and index
The comprehensive contents section at the front of the handbook explains the details you'll find within each chapter.

You'll find information like:
- how and where to contact Faculty staff
- how to select your units of study and programs
- a list of degrees
- detailed information on all units of study – classified by unit identifiers (a four-alpha, four-digit code and a title)
- electives and streams
- scholarships and prizes
- information specific to faculties

The index lists units of study only. It allows you to check every reference which refers to your unit of study within the handbook.

Colour-coded sections
- Ivory – for undergraduate courses
- Blue – for postgraduate courses

Faculty rules and regulations
Faculty resolutions are the rules and regulations pertaining to a specific faculty. They can generally be found in their own chapter, or next to the relevant units of study.

These should be read along with the University's own Coursework Rule 2000 (as amended) which can be found in the general University information towards the back of the book. Together they outline the agreement between student and faculty, and student and University. Senate resolutions are located in the University Calendar.

General University information
This is information about the University in general, rather than information specific to the faculty. This information is at the back of the book and includes, among other things:
- the University Coursework Rule
- the PhD Rule
- University terminology and abbreviations
- campus maps to help you find your way around
- Summer School information
- international student information
- student services

Course planner
You might like to plot the course of your degree as you read about your units of study. This planner can be found at the back of the handbook.

Timetables
For information about personal timetables, centrally timetabled units of study, and venue bookings, see http://www.usyd.edu.au/studentcentre/timetabling.shtml.

For the session calendar, see http://web.timetable.usyd.edu.au/calendar.jsp

Students with a disability
Accessible versions of this document, including word, pdf and html versions are available at http://www.usyd.edu.au/handbooks/handbooks_disability/.

You can find information on Disability Services in the General University information section of the handbook. The Service can provide information regarding assistance with enrolment and course requirement modifications where appropriate.

For details on registering with the Service and online resources see the Disability Services website http://www.usyd.edu.au/disability.

Handbook updates
The information in the handbook is current at the time of publication. Updated information to handbooks and references to University policies such as plagiarism and special consideration, among others can be found in the University’s website.

Welcome by the Director

On behalf of the academic and administrative staff I welcome you to the Koori Centre. In welcoming you I would like to acknowledge the traditional owners of the Country on which the Koori Centre and the University stands... the Cadigal people of the Eora Nation.

The Koori Centre is fortunate to have many outstanding teachers who undertake research lead teaching to support best practice for their students. The academics have dedicated their careers to improving educational outcomes for Indigenous Australian people. Therefore they keep abreast of sound educational practices for Indigenous Australian learners, and strive to create an understanding for non-Indigenous people of the practices and principles of attitudinal change that will contribute towards achieving a more cohesive community of Australians.

The Centre prides itself on its research-intensive culture and the teaching staff are highly regarded as academics with specialised knowledge in Aboriginal education and affairs. Along with their close relationships with Indigenous Australian communities they are actively sought after on local, state and federal committees for contributions to important policy development and practice. Their involvement and commitment plays a significant role in providing opportunities for students to learn about new issues and developments while undertaking their degree in their chosen profession.

The Koori Centre is blessed with a committed administrative staff. They are the people who deal with the day to day operations of the Centre as well as providing support for staff and students. They are responsible for activities such as assisting prospective students and Indigenous and non-Indigenous students of the University. Student Support for Indigenous Australian students includes: administration of the Cadigal Special Entry Scheme; an Academic Skills Program; and the Indigenous Tutorial Assistance Scheme. The administrative staff are professional, approachable, friendly and helpful.

The Koori Centre is one of the largest Indigenous Australian Centres in the country and has a long and distinguished history in promoting equity of access, improving participation and educational outcomes for students at the University of Sydney. The Koori Centre provides policy advice, administrative services, and most importantly student support. In addition, the Centre provides an Indigenous Australian research only library which is accessible to all students within the University.

The Koori Centre is a cultural haven for Indigenous Australian students. The Centre will assist students to find their place within the many Faculties of the University. It also provides Indigenous Australian students with a computer lab and a common room where they can study meet or just relax and have a yarn.

I know you will enjoy studying at the University of Sydney and hope you utilise the abundant facilities, services and opportunities that are available to you. The Koori Centre is here to support Indigenous students and non-Indigenous students who are interested in Indigenous Australian Studies. So enjoy your learning journey as it will be one that you will remember for the rest of your life. I wish you all the best with your study and in your future endeavours.

About the University

The University of Sydney is Australia’s oldest university and was founded in 1850 on a hilltop in the land of the Cadigal people. Lake Northam, an important gathering place for the first people of the land, now forms the centrepiece of Victoria Park just outside the University gates.

Commencing studies with three professors and a little over 30 students in 1852, the University currently has more than 40,000 students and over 2200 teaching staff. University of Sydney graduates have distinguished themselves in all sectors of Australian society and throughout the world, and include several prominent Indigenous leaders and achievers.

Sydney has a strong involvement in the history of Australia’s Indigenous peoples. From the scholarship of early anthropologists, through student activism in the Freedom Rides of the 1960s and on into the present, as a leading educator and trainer of Indigenous professions, establishing one of the first identified courses in an Australian university.

The University of Sydney has a clear commitment to its strategic plan for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, which features consultations with and participation by Indigenous Australians in all aspects of the University. Most importantly, the University is strongly dedicated to its goal of increasing the number of Indigenous Australian students studying at the University of Sydney.
Koori Centre

Our challenge is to continue to foster innovative educational activity. We will achieve our objectives by developing our teaching expertise through appropriate strategies and technological inputs, the expansion of our research activity, and increased student and community involvement and interaction.

Our Strategic Directions are designed to present our goals, related strategies and projected actions. In the pursuit of educational excellence we will continue to build partnerships, internally and externally to the University and with Aboriginal communities.

Vision

To be a centre of excellence in Indigenous Australian higher education

Statement of commitment

To provide and promote high quality culturally appropriate and effective learning and teaching, research and support services for Indigenous Australians and the community at the University of Sydney

Meet some of our students

Amanda Porter

Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws

My name is Amanda and I’m from the Bundjalung community on north-coast NSW. My family is originally from the Baringa group of the Yuin people which is in the Walbunga area down the south-coast at Narooma.

My home town, Ashby, is a beautiful little place. It’s where the river meets the sea, and to top that off, we’re surrounded by the Yuraygir National Park. Back home there’s one supermarket, one pharmacy, two pubs, one bakery, one nursery and one public school. There isn’t much transport either – the school bus took such an indirect route that my sister and I used to take the tinnie to school instead!

Most people back home work in the fishing or sugar-cane industries. But when I finished my HSC in 2002, I realised that this type of work wasn’t for me. So I decided to have a break for a year to think about what I want to do in the future. I eventually decided to come down to Sydney University and study a Bachelor of Arts. At the moment I am in my second year and thinking of majoring in Geography, although there are still many options.

My first year at Sydney was not easy – I missed my family and I had trouble adjusting to the busy city life. Also, the work load is quite challenging and the University is such a huge place that sometimes you just feel like a number.

But the Koori Centre is great for helping in that, as we are like another community on campus. There are friendly faces, friendly smiles and everyone is very supportive if you ever encounter any problems – whether they be problems with accommodation, essay writing or simply missing home. I have even met many people who are in a similar situation, coming from rural Australia.

I would like to encourage all Koori students considering further study to come down and do so. Don’t let the distance or the challenge put you off!

Chloe Johnco

Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Social Work – Aboriginal Studies Major

From my view as a non-Indigenous student the experience at the Koori Centre imparted more than knowledge and University grades; it fostered a deep understanding of the complexity of the challenges ahead, whilst inspiring students to commit to a brighter future.

Unique assessment methods challenge students to think outside a purely academic analysis and strive to find meaning in many spheres. This flexibility in thinking has prepared me for the challenges in Indigenous policy work since finishing at the Koori Centre.

Importantly, the Koori Centre provides a nurturing environment for non-Indigenous as well as Indigenous students, emphasising the value of partnerships and a shared vision for the future.

Adam Ridgeway

Bachelor of Visual Arts

My name is Adam Ridgeway and my family is from the Port Stephens area. I am currently enrolled at Sydney College of the Arts, Rozelle. I am in 2nd year Ceramics at the moment and aspire to continue my course through to a PhD (it will be a while but I’m confident I will make it).

After trying an engineering course I realised that it wasn’t for me and I had to find out what I loved doing. With the help and support from staff at the Koori Centre, I was shown the range of facilities that Sydney had to offer. I still thank them all to this day as it led me to the wonderful campus and results that I have attained.

With special thanks to the ITAS tutoring setup, I have been able to get top marks in all my subjects and develop my skills as a practising artist. This has led to me exploring my Aboriginality and how it affects my work and practice. I have also been able to represent a new face of Indigenous art, participating in some major exhibitions such as the 2006 International Gold Coast Ceramic Art Award.

Since I am off main campus most of the time I don’t see the staff and other students as much as I would like, but whenever I get the chance to pop around they are always there to greet me with a smile and interest and willing to help me with any problems I may be having. If anyone out there was considering a degree in visual arts I couldn’t possibly recommend anywhere but SCA. With such a wonderful atmosphere, great facilities and such awesome staff supporting you, you’ll never want to leave uni!”

Michael Jarrett

Master of Indigenous Languages Education

I live at Nambucca Heads and I am the father of nine children, with one on the way. I have Early Childhood teaching qualifications and am currently working two days a week at St Mary’s, Bowraville, teaching Gumbaynggirr language.

I also work for the Mary River Aboriginal Language Centre where we assist people from many language groups, ranging from the Queensland border to the Central Coast, in the revitalisation of their language and also in getting language programs up and running in their communities.

I came to the Koori Centre to complete my master’s because even though I was teaching language I was not competent in the areas of language structure and grammar, and also to get the linguistic knowledge and background that is necessary to be fully competent in this teaching area.

This Block Mode course has assisted me from the start. I am already putting what I have learned into practice. I can pass this knowledge on to all the people I teach and further assist them with their own language learning.
Kia Brown

Bachelor of Veterinary Science
My name is Kia Brown and I am a descendent of the Garawa people of North-East Arnhem Land.

When I was at school I never thought I had what it took to get into university, so I dropped out after finishing Year 10 in 1999. After a few years working dead end jobs, I realised that the only thing that was standing in my way was me.

So, I enrolled in TAFE and am proud to say that I received my HSC last year, aged 21. Not knowing anything about how to get in to university and how the whole selection process worked, I went into the Koori Centre and the staff were extremely helpful, pointing me in the right direction.

I have always wanted to work with Australian native animals and I decided that the best way to achieve this is to become a vet. Thanks to the help of everyone at the Koori Centre, I am now in the first year of my Veterinary Science degree.

I found the first semester a bit overwhelming, as Vet Science is a full-time, five-day-a-week course, and I also travel an hour each way to uni everyday. But now that I have settled in to the workload, I am finding this semester a lot easier to cope with. Through the Koori Centre, I have also met many other Indigenous students in the same situation as me, starting uni a bit later than most. It’s great to be surrounded by people from a similar background who understand what you are going through.

My message to anyone out there who has dreams of doing something that has always seemed to be out of their reach, is that believing in yourself is half the battle. Once you believe you can do it, anything is possible.

Wayne Cook

Diploma in Education (Aboriginal)
Born: Armidale and New England Hospital, 26 September 1957

I was born into the Anaiwan Nation and my family connections are of the Biripai people. Originally my family are from the Barrington Tops area.

I attended many schools in my primary years due to my parents being seasonal workers; hence education was a bit of a struggle. Secondary schooling was more stable, attending Armidale High (public) School and De La Salle College Armidale, between 1969 and 1975. In High School like many other Aboriginal students, I was encouraged to leave at the age of 14 years nine months. As Aboriginal students we faced lots of discrimination within the school system, and much more within the city of Armidale which was mainly covert, given that Armidale was a city of churches and education with its university, teachers college and many schools. In 1979 I commenced the Teachers Assistant Program, stages 1 & 2, at the Koori Centre but failed to complete the course because of family and work commitments.

I commenced an Associated Diploma course in Aboriginal Studies at Armidale and New England University in 1986–1988, and again did not complete the course due to work commitments and a lifestyle that didn’t cater for studies.

I have always preached the importance of education and I thought it about time I practised what I preached. I have recently found that I need to gain higher qualifications to achieve my goals at work and for the communities that I wish in, and these are the factoring reasons for studying at the Koori Centre, University of Sydney. The style of this course (Block Mode) enables me to work full-time and also study.

Mariko Ralph

Bachelor of Laws
I am now in the final few weeks of my Arts/Law degree, and I can happily say that my five years at Sydney Uni and the Koori Centre have been really exciting and great!

I was able to enter the highly competitive law program at the University of Sydney through the Koori Centre’s Cadigal Program. The Koori Centre staff were actually the people who inspired and directed me during the Indigenous HSC Student Camp to take on a law degree because of my love of learning. The Cadigal Program provided me with academic assistance if I needed it as well as access to tutoring.

The Koori Centre has been my main base at uni where I go to study in a quiet place or in the computer room and to socialise with all the cool people. The people there have really helped me in my transition to uni (I moved away from home in the Central Coast just before I started 1st year) and to learn more about my Aboriginal side (I have only recently found out that I am from the Yuin mob of the NSW South Coast – I come from a rather multicultural background, since my mum is Japanese).

I am really enjoying the law degree, even though it can be pretty full-on at times, but I really recommend it, if you like learning about how to understand society and how to help achieve justice. You don’t even have to become a lawyer after you finish! I am going to try out various careers during my legal career, from the corporate world to government work and ultimately to a job in community legal centre working with other Indigenous people which has been my goal ever since I started law. I really hope more Indigenous kids can come and do a law degree at Sydney University since it is a versatile degree that can really take you places.

Suelynn Tighe

Bachelor in Education (Secondary: Aboriginal Studies)
I am a Gamilaraay woman from Coonabarabran, a rural town in north-western NSW. I began university at the age of 39 and will be soon enjoying my 42nd birthday. My interests are education, Aboriginal culture and language revival.

I view myself as a survivor of the education system from the 1970s and 1980s. I experienced education that was riddled with stereotypical views of intelligence, gender bias and racism. The situation I faced was, too smart to be black and too black to be smart. Am I bitter due to these experiences? The answer is emphatically NO. I consider myself all the stronger as an Aboriginal woman.

Despite negative experiences I have always been involved in and recognised the importance of education.
I have worked as a tutor for Aboriginal students from Year 3 to Year 12, Support Teacher Learning Difficulties (STLD), Disability Aid (deaf student), Year 12 Literacy and Numeracy Support, Teachers Aid (Special), Aboriginal Education Assistant and currently as the Aboriginal Community Liaison Student Support Officer for TAFE in my local community. It is through these many positions that I realised that not much had changed in the educational system for Aboriginal students.

I want to become a teacher because change will only come about if we as Aboriginals participate in all levels of education. The realisation was that in order to do this it was time for me to practise what I have been preaching – the importance of education. The best way was for me to lead by example. So here I am in my third year doing my assignments alongside my children doing theirs. I hope to be a positive influence and role model not only for my family but for others also.

So, how did I end up here at the University of Sydney gaining qualifications to teach Aboriginal Studies? Basically it comes down to two conversations; the first negative and the second positive. Firstly, the negative: a teacher (who shall remain eternally nameless) waved their degree in order to assert masculine dominance. The second conversation was the positive encouragement from Anthony McKnight and Kevin Lowe.

The reason for choosing the Koori Centre at the University of Sydney was due to the heavy involvement of Aboriginal people in the delivery of modules (Block Mode) and office administration. I have made life long friends across Australia here at the Koori Centre. The environment is always jovial (especially that Bachelor 3 mob) and supportive without losing sight of the goal of becoming the best teachers.

I would like to make one challenge to everyone in my traditional language of Gamilaraay:

Guwaalimya Winangalmiya
Translated into English this means: Dare to Speak, Dare to Learn

Connie Ah See

Master of Indigenous Languages Education

I am a descendent of the Wirrrum Wirrum people of the Wiradjuri Nation from Wellington NSW of the Binja Valley. I’m the eldest of five children, four girls and a boy and my Mum has 13 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Since attaining my Diploma of Teaching Primary through the University of Western Sydney in 1992, I have held a number of positions within the NSW Education system culminated in my appointment to the NSW DET Aboriginal Programs Unit, now known as AETD.

This professional expertise combined with my own personal life experiences has enabled me to attain a very thorough knowledge and skills of the Education system, particularly as it relates to Indigenous Australians. My experience and commitment to implementing effective education for Aboriginal students has been demonstrated through my experience within the NSW Education system for the past 13 years.

Being a member of the NSW AECG Inc for the past 19 years has given me the knowledge and skills to negotiate for community consultation and equal educational rights for Aboriginal students. Over these years I have provided Aboriginal community-based advice on all Aboriginal Education and Training in NSW ranging from Early Childhood through to tertiary and community education levels.

My passion for Aboriginal Languages is the main reason behind my decision to enrol in the Koori Centre’s Master of Indigenous Languages Education (MILE) Block Mode program. The decision was a huge one, as I have not studied since my graduation from the AREP program in 1992. My hesitations were quickly eliminated by my strong desire to learn my own Wiradjuri Language. I hope to one day pass my knowledge onto my family and my people.

Since enrolling in the MILE course, I believe that I have gained a whole wealth of knowledge that will assist me to achieve my goals. The MILE course has planted the seed, and now I’ve grown into a small fragile tree; the more I learn, the more I grow, the stronger my branches and roots become.

The MILE course is new, is deadly, is hard work, but is worth all of this and more. Aboriginal Languages in NSW and indeed Australia are going to benefit greatly from graduates of this course.

Thank you to the Koori Centre for this program, it is so much needed. Elders are talking about the program, communities are talking, and departments are talking. MILE will grow and grow, and churn out more and more Aboriginal Linguists.

Jennifer Maher

Bachelor in Education (Secondary: Aboriginal Studies)

My name is Jennifer Maher and I live in Shellharbour (South of Wollongong) and my family are from the Yuin nation.

I have been studying continuously throughout my entire life. I completed my Year 12 certificate in 2003. During this time I really didn’t know what I wanted to do; all I knew was I wanted to go to university and study something. My real interests were in law but at this particular point in time studying law was unrealistic.

In the end of 2003 I was encouraged to undertake the Block Mode, Bachelor in Education course at the Koori Centre at University of Sydney. I decided to do so with much anticipation. I knew that the course load would not be a problem for me as I had only just finished secondary school. It was the content that I was afraid of. I was not sure if I was going to be able to cope.

In 2005 I completed the Diploma of Education (Aboriginal), which is the first two years of the bachelor course. At this point in my life, for the first time, I felt like I could accomplish anything. Graduating was the best feeling ever, nothing like I have ever experienced before. The feeling of graduating topped the last two years of my study. It was the end of something old but the beginning of something new. Looking back at the time of my anticipation of entering this course, I think to myself why did I even worry? I had lots of support from the staff at the Koori Centre and they helped me through everything.

In the present year, 2006, I am currently undertaking my third year of the Bachelor in Education. The end is in sight. I have come a long way in this course and I can finally see the light. This course has made me a better person. I could not think of anything else that I would rather do than teach. I love what I do and I will continue to strive for what I love most and that is teaching.

- Indigenous writing; relationship to Australian justice system; religions; performing and visual arts; language and literature; archaeology and contemporary cultural heritage and ethnographic issues.

The Koori Centre coordinates the Indigenous Australian Studies major of the Bachelor of Arts and teaches core units of study within this program. The Centre also teaches Indigenous Australian Studies subjects within other faculties as electives and compulsory subjects.

18 junior credit points are required to enrol in Introduction to Indigenous Australia (KOCR2600). This unit of study is also a prerequisite for most other (KOCR) units of study. Check the unit of study outlines for prerequisite and corequisite details.

For an Indigenous Australian Studies major, students must complete 36 credit points of Indigenous Australian Studies. This can include up to 18 credit points of cross-listed units of study.

Enrolment and registration

All students completing the Indigenous Australian Studies major are required to enrol in the Faculty of Arts. Students will be allocated tutorial sessions automatically as part of the enrolment procedure online.

Advice on units of study

The Koori Centre office is open for enquiries in September/October for pre-enrolment, and during the SWOT/O-Week period. The Koori Centre can provide information regarding the Indigenous Australian Studies major, as well as specific information on the units offered through the Koori Centre.

Student support

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students are enrolled in a variety of degrees at the University of Sydney including: Medicine, Music, Arts, Law, Education, Veterinary Science, Social Work, Science, Engineering, Visual Arts, and Rural Management.

The Koori Centre encourages increased enrolments, and supports current students in their studies by providing:

- The Cadigal Special Entry Program
- information and advice on enrolment and courses;
- tutoring to suit particular needs;
- study facilities for independent study, including computer and photocopier;
- an Indigenous Research Library;
- common room, courtyard and kitchen for student use;
- assistance with housing and financial matters; and scholarships.

Cadigal Special Entry Program

The Cadigal Program is a University-wide access and support program for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who want to study for their first degree at the University of Sydney.

The Cadigal Program is open to either:

- people under 21 years of age who have completed the NSW Higher School Certificate or an equivalent examination (HSC applicants);
- people over 21 years of age (Mature Age applications).

Both HSC applicants and Mature Age applicants should submit a Cadigal Program application to the Koori Centre before the end of November. They must also submit a Universities Admissions Centre (UAC) application by the end of September showing their preferred course/s at the University of Sydney.

HSC applicants are considered for entry on the basis of:

(a) their Universities Admission Index (UAI) score

(b) individual subject results

All Mature Age applicants are assessed by staff of the Koori Centre to assess their suitability for study at the University and to determine the particular course/s they wish to enter. The interview panel considers each application on the basis of three main areas:

- educational background;
- life and employment experiences;
- evidence of motivation and goals, and interest in the course/s selected.

Students admitted through the Cadigal Program may be offered enrolment with a full-time course load or reduced load and Academic Skills support. Students with a reduced load may still be eligible for full-time Abstudy.

Our aim is to activate students’ interests in Indigenous Australia through our innovative and engaging teaching, which draws on the diversity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander scholarship and cultural production. The Koori Centre strives to create an inclusive yet challenging space which encourages students to think deeply about Indigenous cultures, societies, and experiences in Australia’s past, present and future.

Indigenous Australian Studies is a dynamic field open to students from any discipline. After undertaking our compulsory unit of study, KOCR2600: Introduction to Indigenous Australia, students may enrol in a range of electives encompassing creative arts, gender studies, health, history, and politics. The Koori Centre is also committed to the enhancement of Indigenous Australian educational outcomes so offers a Diploma and Bachelor of Education to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students. We also offer a number of units of study on Indigenous Education to any student enrolled in a Bachelor of Education.

Previous students have asserted that undertaking Indigenous Australian Studies was a challenging and rewarding experience, giving them an awareness of our society which influenced their everyday lives and transformed their thinking about a range of issues, not exclusively limited to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. The knowledge and critical skills developed through undertaking Indigenous Australian Studies ensures that our graduates easily secure employment in a range of fields including policy-making, government, teaching and nursing.

The Koori Centre provides a broad range of academic and support services for the University of Sydney community, including teaching, research, marketing, administrative support and community outreach.

Policies and general information

Assignments

All assignments must have a Koori Centre cover sheet which is available from the Administration Office (room U224), Old Teachers College. Cover sheets can also be found online at http://www.koori.usyd.edu.au/studying/aborig_studies.shtml (look on that page under forms). Make sure you read and sign the plagiarism compliance statement on the reverse of the cover sheet.

Assignments must be submitted at the Administration Office at the Koori Centre (room U224) between 9am and 4pm on the due date. Do not submit your assignments directly to your tutor. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of your assignment. If your assignment is misplaced or lost, you will be expected to produce a copy of your assignment within a specified period.

Marked assignments can be collected from the Koori Centre Administration Office (room U224), and you will be notified when these are available. Under University regulations, assignments not collected within three months can be disposed of. Students wanting their assignments posted to them must make arrangements with their tutor in advance and supply postage paid, self-addressed envelopes.

Format

Your assignment paper must be typed or word processed and printed on office standard plain paper in a 12 point font. Your text should be presented with 1.5 line spacing, numbered pages, and margins of 2.5 cm (1 inch) on all sides for written comments from your marker. All assignments should be stapled in the top left corner. Do not place your assignment in a plastic cover of any kind.

Classes and attendance

Important: It is expected that you will attend all classes, and in keeping with University of Sydney policy, you are required to attend 90 per cent of your tutorials. Rolls will be taken in both lectures and tutorials. If possible you should supply documentary evidence explaining your absence, and notify your tutor in advance.

Attendance below 50 per cent, regardless of the reasons for the absences, will result in the student being deemed not to have fulfilled the requirements of the unit of study.

Each week you will attend lecture/s, and a tutorial, for the unit of study. Brief lecture notes will available in advance on WebCT – you must be an enrolled student to access these notes. The notes will only provide a scaffold of the lecture so it is essential that you still attend lectures.
Efforts are made to avoid timetabling clashes but it is not possible to eliminate them completely. Students who have clashes with classes should consult the relevant teaching staff in the departments concerned and acquaint themselves with the departmental policies regarding attendance before they make a decision about how to deal with such clashes. Students must be aware that ultimately they are responsible for the consequences of any decision they make.

Students who decide to continue with both units of study must check that the relevant teaching staff are made aware of their intention. Furthermore, students should note that they may not use a timetabled clash to gain, for instance, special consideration, negotiate due dates, or miss in-class testing.

Students should be advised that they need to keep in mind the final dates for changing or withdrawing from units of study so that they do not incur penalties or additional HECS.

Complaints and grievances
Students who believe they have been unfairly treated are encouraged to speak to their tutors or to the Academic Coordinator of the Koori Centre in the first instance. Students may, of course, also wish to seek advice and support from the Counselling Service or from student welfare officers. If the problem cannot be resolved at the departmental level, students may write to the Dean, care of the Faculty Office.

Timetables
Details of class times and locations are available from the department concerned, and are usually posted on the departmental noticeboard. All students will have access to their timetable via the Internet. Details about access will be provided at enrolment.

Timetable clashes – see Classes and attendance

Plagiarism
Plagiarism is the theft of intellectual property.

The Academic Board of the University of Sydney has defined plagiarism as “presenting another person’s ideas, findings or work as your own by copying or reproducing it without due acknowledgement of the source”.

Plagiarism includes presenting oral or written work that contains sentences, paragraphs or longer sections from published work, including internet articles, newspapers, magazines, etc, without acknowledgement. Plagiarism also occurs when a student borrows, buys or obtains another person’s work and submits it as his or her own work or re-submits a previously submitted assessment task in a different unit of study.

The Koori Centre is opposed to and will not tolerate plagiarism and will treat all cases of student plagiarism seriously. Assessment tasks suspected of plagiarism will be forwarded to the Koori Centre Academic Coordinator for judgement on the penalties to be imposed. Such penalties can include a Fail grade in a particular assessment task or unit of study or, in a worst-case scenario, expulsion from the University.

For further information on the issue of plagiarism in coursework, refer to the following website: http://www.usyd.edu.au/senate/policies/Plagiarism.pdf

Special Consideration
The Koori Centre recognises that unforeseeable circumstances, such as serious ill-health or misadventure can negatively impact on a student’s academic performance. If you feel that circumstances outside of your control have affected your assessments then please consult your Lecturer in Charge, or go to http://www.edsw.usyd.edu.au/current_students/policies/uni.shtml where you will find further information on the University’s Special Consideration policy and obtain the application form.

Appeals
If you are unhappy with the mark you received for an assessment you should first speak to your tutor or the marker of that assessment item. If you are still dissatisfied you may make an appeal to the unit of study coordinators who will arrange for your work to be re-marked by a different examiner. If further action is required, please consult the Koori Centre’s Academic Coordinator. Please note that to ensure fairness in marking all assignments which receive either a fail or a high distinction grade are second marked.

Appeals against results
A written request to the department or school should be made by the candidate. It is expected that appeals would be lodged within two months unless there is a good reason for delay. As examination scripts are destroyed six months after examination, no appeal can be made after that time. Such requests are considered by the Koori Centre in consultation with relevant members of the Faculty and the Koori Centre. A report and recommendation is then submitted to the Director for consideration and final decision.

Extensions and late penalties
Extensions can only be granted by your tutor or one of the unit of study coordinators. Requests for extensions must be submitted in writing on a ‘Request for Extension’ form. These forms can be obtained from the Administration Office at the Koori Centre (room U224). After completing the ‘Request for Extension’ form, please give this form to your tutor or one of the unit of study coordinators. A copy of the approved ‘Request for Extension’ should be attached to your assignment when handed in.

It is your responsibility to ensure that your application has been approved. Simply writing a request does not guarantee that an extension will be granted. Extensions are normally for a few days. If an extension of one week or over is required you must supply documentation (e.g. a medical certificate). Being in full-time work, or having several assignments due at the same time, do not constitute grounds for an extension.

Late submission of assignments without an extension will incur a penalty of 2 per cent of the total mark for each day that they are late. Assignments submitted more than 10 working days after the due date will be further penalised and can only achieve a maximum Pass mark of 50 per cent. Any assignment submitted after the marked assignments have been returned will automatically receive a zero.
Language and representation

The Koori Centre recognises and values cultural diversity, and is a strong advocate for the fair representation of different cultural groups in contemporary society. The use of accurate and respectful language is a priority in our teaching and research. Students are asked to take serious note of the following guidelines, particularly when writing essays and presenting tutorial papers.

Fair representation of Indigenous nations and individuals

The Indigenous peoples of Australia come from a wide range of distinct cultural contexts. When writing on Indigenous Australian people or individuals, take the time to find out how they themselves wish to be named. Acceptable names may be ‘Koori’ if a person is connected to New South Wales, ‘Murri’ for people from Queensland, or ‘Noongah’ for people from South Western Australia. There are many other specific groups such as ‘Anangu’ or ‘Yolngu’. Torres Strait Islanders have linguistic and cultural identities that are very different to mainland Australians.

When writing more generally, use the terms ‘Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples’, ‘Indigenous peoples’ or ‘Aboriginal peoples’. Terms such as the Aborigines or ‘native(s)’ objectify Aboriginal people and should not be used in any circumstances. Be sure to capitalise the first letter of terms such as ‘Aboriginal’ or ‘Torres Strait Islanders’. These words are proper nouns, like ‘Australian’ or ‘American’, and must be capitalised. It has also become a convention of academic writing in Australia to capitalise the word ‘Indigenous’ when it clearly refers to, or is used in place of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Australians.

Never use terms such as, ‘full-blood’, ‘half-caste’, ‘quarter-caste’, ‘part-Aboriginal’ or ‘mixed blood’ in an uncritical manner. These terms were used officially by governments and institutions for the purposes of discriminatory treatment and are regarded as inaccurate and insulting.

A good guide to language use in relation to Aboriginal cultures is Rhonda Craven’s ‘Using the right words in the Indigenous Australian studies classroom’. (Sydney, 1996, School of Teacher Education, UNSW in association with CAR).

Fair representation of all peoples

University of Sydney Senate policy states that the University community regards as offensive, under all circumstances, the use of written or spoken language which makes personal or irrelevant reference to race, sex, marital status, pregnancy, disability, sexual preference, transsexual status, political or religious beliefs and age. For example, as a student of the University it is your responsibility to ensure that you always use non-sexist or gender-neutral language. For suggested guidelines on inclusive and non-discriminatory language use, please read the Staff and Student Equal Opportunity Unit Language Guidelines, which can be found on the University intranet at http://www.usyd.edu.au/eeo/html/policies_language_guidelines.htm.

Aboriginal Studies/Indigenous Australian Studies

KOCR2600
Indigenous Australia: An Introduction
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 1, Semester 2 Classes: (2 lec x 1hr & 1 x 1hr tut) wk Prerequisites: 18 Junior credit points Prohibitions: KOCR2100 Assessment: one 2000 word essay (40%); one tutorial presentation (10%); one 1000 word tutorial paper (20%); WebCT activities equivalent to 1500 words (30%) Campus: Camperdown/Darlington

This unit of study explores the historical, social and political contexts of the survival and growth of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures and philosophies. The unit is structured around the themes of representation and identities; the colonisation of land and people; and resistance and agency. It will provide students with an introduction to Indigenous philosophies and theories by examining 'contact history' and resistance within a critical framework.

KOCR2604
Colours of Identity: Indigenous Bodies
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 1 Classes: (1 x 2hr lec and 1 x 2hr tut) wk Corequisites: KOCR2100 or KOCR2600 Assessment: one presentation (20%); one 2000 word take-home exam (30%); one 3000 word research essay (50%) Campus: Camperdown/Darlington

This unit of study explores various ways in which the body contributes to the formation of Indigenous Australian identity, both from within and without. Using contemporary theoretical approaches we will explore the ways in which Indigenous Australian bodies were constructed by colonial discourses; how they were 'ethered', fragmented, gendered, and subordinated. We will also explore how Indigenous agency has manifested through the body, for example through withholding labour, political activism, and creative re-presentations of the body.

KOCR2605
Speaking Gamilaraay 1
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 1 Classes: (1 x 3hr seminar) wk Corequisites: KOCR2100 or KOCR2600 Assessment: worksheets(60%); essay(20%) and class test(20%) Campus: Camperdown/Darlington Gamilaraay is an Indigenous Australian language from the mid northwest of NSW that is currently undergoing revitalisation. This Unit of Study will provide students with a basic competence in speaking, understanding, reading and writing Gamilaraay sufficient to recognise and construct simple utterances in the language, and to understand its relationships with other languages. Classes will take the form of three hour intensive oral workshops which progressively develop each student's abilities in the language. Assessment will be by short written assignments based on lesson content and an appraisal of individual oral/aural performance together with a short essay on Gamilaraay culture or a related topic.

KOCR2606
Torres Strait Histories and Experiences
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 2 Classes: (1 x 1hr lec and 1 x 2hr tut) wk Prerequisites: KOCR2100 or KOCR2600 Assessment: tutorial presentation(20%), critical review(30%) and essay (50%) Campus: Camperdown/Darlington

Torres Strait Islanders are often talked about as Australia's other indigenous minority and many Australians know little about the region and its people. This Unit of Study will introduce students to Torres Strait societies through the themes of governance, migration and resource management. Students will learn about the diversity within Torres Strait communities and how Torres Strait Islander experiences of colonisation and responses to colonisation were and are as complex as those of Aboriginal people.

KOCR2607
Indigenous Creative Expression
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 1, Summer Dec Classes: 1 x 3hr seminar Prerequisites: 18 Junior credit points Assessment: essay (40%), seminar presentation (25%) and creative exhibit (35%) Campus: Camperdown/Darlington

The concept of 'traditional' versus 'contemporary' is very much at the forefront of defining meanings for art works created by Indigenous artists. Typically works created by Indigenous artists are delegated to either one of these categories. This unit will examine the theoretical frameworks which position Indigenous artists, through the study of Indigenous artistic expression across a range of genres. It will provide students with the opportunity to engage with Indigenous artists on a formal and informal basis and to discuss complex issues pertaining to Indigenous works, in performance, literature(writing), music, dance and film.

KOCR2603
Indigenous Health and Communities
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 2 Classes: (1 x 1hr lec and 1 x 2hr tut) wk Prerequisites: KOCR2100 or KOCR2600 Prohibitions: KOCR2111 Assessment: tutorial presentation (20%), critical review (30%) and essay (50%) Campus: Camperdown/Darlington

The continuing poor health status of Indigenous people is well documented. However, attempts at improving Aboriginal health have often been met with inappropriate policy and practice. The challenge in improving Aboriginal health lies partly in improving the knowledge of non-Indigenous Australians of the historical, cultural and contemporary issues which impact on health. This unit of study will provide opportunities for meaningful contact with Indigenous Australians as a foundation for building partnerships with Indigenous people to improve Aboriginal health.

KOCR2601
Indigenous Australia: Land and Culture
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 2 Classes: (1 x 1hr lec & 1 x 2hr tut) wk Prerequisites: KOCR2100 or KOCR2600 Prohibitions: KOCR2101 Assessment: identity exercise(10%), tutorial presentation(20%), tutorial paper(20%) and essay(50%) Campus: Camperdown/Darlington

This unit of study traces Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander relationships to country and place, and the continuities and dynamism of contemporary Indigenous Australian cultures. It will celebrate the fact that, despite the impact of colonisation, Indigenous Australian peoples have maintained unique identities and connections to land and sea. Through the themes of Indigenous Sydney, Connections to Place, and Cultural Continuities, we will examine Indigenous belief systems, art, language, performance, and film. This unit of study will include excursions to cultural sites around Sydney.

KOCR2602
Issues in Indigenous Rights
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 2 Classes: (2 x 2hr seminars) wk Prerequisites: KOCR2100 or KOCR2600 Prohibitions: KOCR2102 Assessment: Participation (10%), Seminar Presentation (25%), Literature Review (10%) Media Report (15%) and Research Project (40%) Campus: Camperdown/Darlington

In the second half of the 20th Century Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples began to culturally and politically recover from the effects of colonisation and assimilation. Having had fundamental human rights severely limited by state and federal legislation, and having experienced years of disempowerment, dislocation and social disruption, Indigenous peoples have sought to reclaim independent social and political power. This unit of study explores national and international developments in this history, addressing issues of political and social representation, and examining contemporary analyses of Indigenous rights to self-determination in legal, political and community spheres.

KOCR2112
Indigenous Australia: History and Health
Credit points: 6 Session: Semester 2 Classes: 1 x 3hr seminar Campus: Camperdown/Darlington

Note: Faculty of Nursing students only
This unit of study aims to introduce students to the reality of Indigenous history and the knowledge of Indigenous peoples. Students will critically analyse the impact of government policies and practices on the Indigenous lived experience. An examination on how a holistic way of life is viewed within an Australian context will be explored. Students will also explore broader health issues. It is envisaged that this unit of study will assist nursing students to improve their knowledge base in relation to issues of tolerance, diversity and self-reflection with a view to understanding how these issues may impact upon Nursing practices, particularly in regard to working with Indigenous peoples within Australia.

Bachelor of Education (Secondary: Aboriginal Studies)

KCSE3101 Evaluation and Assessment in Schools
Credit points: 6 Session: S1 Late Int
Note: Department permission required for enrolment. Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

The focus of this unit of study is to develop an understanding of the importance and purposes of assessment and evaluation and their interconnected relationship to learning. An historical overview of assessment and evaluation is essential to the understanding of current contexts for assessment and student learning in schools.

KCSE3102 Aboriginal Studies: Stages 4, 5 & 6
Credit points: 6 Session: S1 Late Int
Note: Department permission required for enrolment. Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

This unit of study introduces Stages 4, 5 and 6 Aboriginal Studies, which are Board of Studies approved electives in the secondary curriculum. These courses are based on standard Board of Studies designs and, as such, provide students with an excellent first hand experience of the syllabus continuum in the secondary school. Outcomes-based teaching and learning is a feature and students learn to translate this approach into practical teaching, planning and implementation. Students also consider an holistic approach to Aboriginal Studies where the needs of the students, school and community directly influence the nature of program development and content. Consultation, protocols, ethical research practices and a local community focus feature as they do in both syllabuses. Cross curriculum content and skills with a focus on literacy and ICT (Information and Communication Technology) is part of the ongoing development of students becoming multi-skilled, adaptable and pro-active educators in the field of Aboriginal Studies.

KCSE3103 Indigenous Land and Culture
Credit points: 6 Session: S1 Late Int Prerequisites: KCDE2104
Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

The focus of the unit is to develop an understanding of land from an Indigenous perspective. Students will explore how land is represented and symbolised from an Indigenous cultural perspective. Through a broad, cross-disciplinary approach to inquiry, a range of Indigenous contemporary issues and questions relating to land and land use will be examined. These will include: cultural maintenance and transmission, ownership of land, identity and land, land and environment, religious/spiritual connection to land and place, health and education issues relating to concepts of land, visual and performing arts images from the land, Indigenous land use and management, and contemporary concepts of land and culture in selected urban, rural and isolated Australian communities.

KCSE3104 Australia WW1 to Whitlam
Credit points: 6 Session: S2 Late Int
Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

The twentieth century saw major transformations in Australian society. From the aftermath of the Great War, this unit of study follows the traumas of Depression and World War II, into periods of less dramatic but still profound change: the post-war boom through the Menzies years; threats posed by the Cold War; the proliferation of nuclear weapons; the impact of immigration; the 1960s youth protest movement and the Vietnam War, and social changes brought about by the Whitlam government. Through a survey of those years and their aftermath, the unit seeks to frame and enhance historical understanding of issues and challenges which confront Australians today. The aim of this unit of study is to introduce students to historical content and methodology in order to give them the confidence to teach the relevant Board of studies history syllabi within secondary schools.

It will reflect on expressions of identity, social history and political autonomy, and the evolution of Indigenous literary production in the broader milieu of colonisation, resistance and self-determination. The unit will encourage generic skills in textual, theoretical and historical analysis, and will stimulate the development of students’ personal creative expression.

20th Century Europe: Age of Catastrophe?

Credit points: 6
Session: S1 Late Int
Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

This unit of study aims to provide an introduction to the central events of early twentieth-century European history, a period which historian Eric Hobsbawm described as ‘an age of catastrophe’. This unit, which examines the tumultuous events that occurred during the early twentieth-century, takes World War One as its starting point, investigating the impact this war had on the changing politics, nations, culture and ideology of Europe. The unit then explores these themes in detail by focusing on individual national case studies, and, in particular, the leaders considered instrumental in enacting these changes. Students will also consider the lived history, that is, the social aspects of the changing politics in England, Russia and Germany. Finally, students will examine European history from a broader perspective by tracing the history of four examples of international conflict. Students will be introduced to historical content and methodology in order to give them the confidence to teach the relevant Board of Studies history syllabus within secondary schools.

KCSE4104

Human Society and its Environment 4

Credit points: 6
Session: S1 Late Int
Prerequisites: KCSE3204
Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

This subject takes a critical perspective on two concepts central to our understanding of education: the ‘self’, or individual and ‘knowledge’. Using a selected case study methodology, the unit will provide opportunities for student teachers to gain insights into ways in which construction of individual teaching style can be analysed and understood in terms of contemporary educational theories and practices. The unit, overall, will extend reflective professional experience in schools and other teaching and learning contexts.

It explores the history, diversity, characteristics and structures of Indigenous Australian communities and their historical and contemporary experiences of research. A range of library and computer-based research skills are also practised. Students will be provided with an opportunity to synthesise these understandings and apply them in a practical setting through a major community-based research project.

KCDE1201 Academic Literacies 2
Credit points: 6 Session: S2 Late Int Prerequisites: KCDE1101 and KCDE1102
Note: Department permission required for enrolment. Note: Available only to students enrolled in the Diploma of Education (Aboriginal)

Advanced literacy is an essential requirement for successful students and effective teachers. This unit of study further develops the skills and concepts taught in Academic Literacies 1 through a range of practical activities. The mathematics component of this unit of study introduces students to some basic arithmetic concepts and skills relevant to the performance of administrative duties in teaching contexts, and planning and delivery of mathematics curricula in school settings.

KCDE1202 Teaching and Learning: Curriculum
Credit points: 6 Session: S2 Late Int Prerequisites: KCDE1101 and KCDE1102
Note: Department permission required for enrolment. Note: Available only to students enrolled in the Diploma of Education (Aboriginal)

The aim of this unit of study is to introduce students to important concepts related to curriculum; the stakeholders who can influence curriculum and how curriculum is constructed. Teachers are constantly being introduced to new and innovative syllabi developed by education bodies with the intention that they will address the intended outcomes both at school and classroom level. An introduction to a wide variety of syllabi will allow students the opportunity to explore these documents and determine how they shape the development of school curriculum as a major role of the teacher. Aboriginal perspectives are also a major focus within this Unit of Study therefore syllabi will be examined for inclusion of and suggested implementation of Aboriginal perspectives across the curriculum.

KCDE1203 Human Development and Learning
Credit points: 6 Session: S2 Late Int Prerequisites: KCDE1101 and KCDE1102
Note: Department permission required for enrolment. Note: Available only to students enrolled in the Diploma of Education (Aboriginal)

The systematic study of human development and learning requires careful observation, documentation and analysis of how people grow, change, adapt and acquire new knowledge over time. This unit of study examines the adolescent period of human growth and development. Both Indigenous and non-Indigenous adolescent physical, social, cognitive and emotional development patterns will be addressed, especially within the socio-cultural context of secondary schools. Particular emphasis will be placed upon relationships between the relatively rapid growth and development of the adolescent student and the opportunity for quality learning. This important transitional period from childhood to young adulthood raises significant issues and challenges related to maturation, identity formation, self esteem, propensity for risk taking and influences of both peers and family.

KCDE1204 Human Society and its Environment 1

Postgraduate study

Introduction
The Koori Centre offers a suite of postgraduate qualifications designed to meet the need for qualified instructors to participate in the delivery of Indigenous Australian languages education programs in a range of educational settings.

The Graduate Certificate, Graduate Diploma and Master of Indigenous Languages Education equip Indigenous educators with the knowledge and skills necessary to implement the NSW Aboriginal Languages K-10 Syllabus and syllabi from other states. Course content is arranged into linguistics, theory and practice strands and is applicable to all Indigenous Australian languages. Students do not need to be fluent in an Indigenous Australian language to enter the courses and may undertake external study in one as part of the Graduate Diploma or Master.

The courses are offered on a full-time basis by mixed mode ('block release') requiring attendance at three blocks each semester. Teaching staff are drawn from within the University and Indigenous Australian language programs from across the state.

Entry to the Graduate Certificate of Indigenous Languages Education requires that candidates have successfully completed two years towards a teaching qualification, that is; a Diploma in Education (Aboriginal), or equivalent. The Graduate Certificate is completed in one semester full-time and consists of four units of study:

- KCIL5610 Sounds & Writing in Indigenous Languages
- KCIL5611 Words & Meanings in Indigenous Languages
- KCIL5612 Sentences & Text in Indigenous Languages
- KCIL5613 Theories & Methods in Language Learning

Students who complete the requirements for the Graduate Certificate may extend their study and qualify for the Graduate Diploma of Indigenous Languages Education by undertaking a further two units of study in the second semester, chosen from the following:

- KCIL5622 Learning an Indigenous Language
- KCIL5623 Language Curriculum Development
- KCIL5624 Technology & Language Learning

Entry to the Master of Indigenous Languages Education requires that candidates have completed either:

- a four year teaching qualification, that is; a Bachelor of Education, or a three year degree and a Diploma of Education, or,
- the Graduate Certificate of Indigenous Languages Education with an average mark of 70% or higher.

To qualify for the award of the Master of Indigenous Languages Education students must complete four units of study chosen from the following, in addition to completing all four offered in the first semester:

- KCIL5620 Research Methods in Languages Education
- KCIL5621 Research Project in Languages Education (elective)
- KCIL5622 Learning an Indigenous Language (elective)
- KCIL5623 Language Curriculum Development
- KCIL5624 Technology & Language Learning

In some cases it may be possible for candidates with similar but different qualifications to be granted admission.

Postgraduate units of study

Graduate Certificate/Diploma and Master of Indigenous Languages Education

KCIL5610

Sounds & Writing in Indigenous Languages

Credit points: 6  Session: S1 Late Int  Classes: Block Mode  Corequisites: KCIL5610 AND KCIL5612

Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

The study of any language requires an understanding of its sounds and the ways in which they relate to each other so that they can be written down. This unit of study introduces students to the production, perception and classification of speech sounds and their organisation into meaningful systems with particular reference to Indigenous Australian languages. It also provides an understanding of the development of writing systems and contemporary approaches to Australian orthography design.

KCIL5611

Words & Meanings in Indigenous Languages

Credit points: 6  Session: S1 Late Int  Classes: Block Mode  Corequisites: KCIL5610 AND KCIL5612

Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

Words are the principal vehicles for conveying meaning in most languages. This unit of study gives students a foundation in the description of meaning and the structure and function of words with particular reference to Indigenous Australian languages. It also provides students with the skills to classify words and their component parts and describe the ways in which they combine sound and meaning to make verbal communication possible.

KCIL5612

Sentences & Text in Indigenous Languages

Credit points: 6  Session: S1 Late Int  Classes: Block Mode  Corequisites: KCIL5610 and KCIL5611

Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

Sentences and texts are the major units of human language. This unit of study provides students with the understanding and skills to describe these longer strings of language and make generalisations about them. It also considers the relationships between the many varieties of Australian languages that occur for different purposes, in different places and at different times.

KCIL5613

Theories & Methods in Language Learning

Credit points: 6  Session: S1 Late Int  Classes: Block Mode  Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

Teachers in the language classroom are often confronted with the dilemma of choosing the right method or approach to adequately develop the proficiency of their students. What many do not realise is that there is no one perfect method or approach; what might work in one language teaching situation might not necessarily work in another. Over the last two centuries, a number of methods and approaches have emerged each determined by the social, cultural, economic and political factors of the day. Given this scope, there are teaching situations that have demanded a focus on the development of written proficiency whilst others that of oracy. The goal of this course is to introduce students to theories of languages education methodology and provide them with the foundations to successfully choose methods and/or approaches that will best cater the teaching of Indigenous languages in Australia. It will include significant methods used in the teaching of the macro (listening and responding, speaking, reading and responding, and writing) skills and the micro (lexico-grammatical) skills; determining teacher and learner roles; and effective language lesson planning.

KCIL5620

Research Methods in Languages Education

Credit points: 6  Session: S2 Late Int  Classes: Block Mode  Prerequisites: 18 credit points, including KCIL5613

Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

Conducting research in the teaching of Australian languages requires an understanding of diverse issues, including: languages education research methods, the history of research on Indigenous people and languages, locating existing records, practical techniques for obtaining and managing data, project planning, Indigenous research ethics and community consultation. It is also important for students to understand the role of research in high-quality teaching and to gain experience in a range of research methodologies and their potential for application to likely teaching situations in this field. This unit of study allows students to explore these issues and develop practical skills that will allow them to become effective researchers in Indigenous languages education. Students will be expected to directly apply their learning in this unit of study to their activities in KCIL5621 Research Project in Languages Education or KCIL5622 Learning an Indigenous Language.

KCIL5621

Research Project in Languages Education

Credit points: 6  Session: Semester 2  Classes: Block Mode  Corequisites: KCIL5620  Prohibitions: KCIL5622

Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

Although some Indigenous Australian languages have undergone substantial documentation and are currently being taught, many are in great need of further research and all require more investigation. This unit of study provides students with an opportunity to exercise the skills and knowledge provided in the course to generate new knowledge about particular languages and their teaching.

KCIL5622

Learning an Indigenous Language

Credit points: 6  Session: S2 Late Int  Classes: Block Mode  Prerequisites: 18 credit points, including KCIL5613  Prohibitions: KCIL5621

Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

In order to teach an Indigenous language it is essential that the teacher has greater fluency than their students. This unit of study provides an opportunity for students to undertake study outside the degree program to develop their ability to speak an Australian language. Students may access courses offered by the University of Sydney, another tertiary institution, a TAFE college, school, community language centre, or similar. To obtain credit under this unit of study the external studies must be equivalent to 36 hours of face-to-face teaching and satisfy MILE staff regarding its standard and thoroughness. Students who are already fluent or cannot access an external unit in a language of their choosing should undertake KCIL5621 Research Project in Indigenous Languages as a means to enhance their skills.
KCIL5623
Language Curriculum Development
Credit points: 6  Session: S2 Late Int Classes: Block Mode  Prerequisites: 18 credit points, including KCIL5613
Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

Preceding any successful formal teaching or learning situation is effective programming and planning determined by curriculum parameters. Language curriculum development involves more than just the content to be taught in any given teaching situation. It involves establishing goals and outcomes often defined by external organisations; performing ongoing needs analysis of learning and teaching situations; programming and planning against external and internal factors; designing programs that best address all factors; choosing and designing resources; and determining appropriate assessment and evaluation procedures. The goal of this unit is to examine these issues against authentic situations and apply knowledge gained towards developing effective language curriculum for quality teaching in Indigenous languages education contexts and across all key learning areas.

KCIL5624
Technology and Language Learning
Credit points: 6  Session: S2 Late Int Classes: Block Mode  Corequisites: KCIL5623
Note: Available to students enrolled in Koori Centre block-mode courses only.

Effective language teaching and learning can be enhanced by technology. This unit of study introduces students to the diverse technological aids that can enhance their teaching practices and their own language learning. It provides them with samples and models from which they can develop their own multimedia resources.

The Sydney Summer and Winter Schools

The Summer School
The Summer School is a full fee-paying, intensive program offering high quality undergraduate and postgraduate units of study from most faculties. These units of study are the same as those offered in Semesters One and Two, but are taught as an intensive program over summer. Some classes commence in December, others commence in January and continue into February (including the exam week). Some units of study run for seven weeks others are shorter. Students can take a maximum of two units of study.

The Winter School
The Winter School is held every July during the academic year. The Winter School is a smaller, more intensive three week program.

Advantages
Attending classes at Sydney University during summer offers many advantages. You can
• use this time to accelerate your academic career and to finish your degree sooner
• devote your full attention to a single area of study
• take courses that might be outside your normal degree
• reduce your workload throughout the rest of the year
• repeat units of study in which you may have been unsuccessful
• combine study with a field trip in Australia or a tour overseas.

For high school graduates, you can
• sample a university program
• get a head start on your degree.

How to apply
Applications will only be accepted online. Our website is www.summer.usyd.edu.au

Some units have limited places and fill very quickly. All places are filled strictly on a first in first served basis so it is recommended that you apply early.

Applications open on 27 September 2006.
Applications close on 15 December 2006.

Census dates – Summer School 2007
Students can withdraw from their unit of study without academic penalty and receive a full refund until the census date. However, a late withdrawal fee may apply. As classes start throughout December to February there are three census dates for the Summer School. These are based on when the class commences.

Withdrawal and Refund policy
• For classes commencing in December 2006, students withdrawing from a Summer School unit of study from 28 November 2006 to 2 January 2007, will receive a refund of tuition fees but will be liable for a $500 late withdrawal fee.
• For classes commencing after 4 January 2007, students withdrawing from a Summer School unit of study from 16 December 2006 to 12 January 2007, will receive a refund of tuition fees but will be liable for a $500 late withdrawal fee.
• For classes commencing after 12 January 2007, students withdrawing from a Summer School unit of study from 16 December 2006 to 6 February 2007, will receive a refund of tuition fees but will be liable for a $500 late withdrawal fee.
• Students may withdraw from their Summer School unit(s) of study up until 4pm on the last day of the Teaching Period for that particular unit of study. However, there may be an academic penalty (please refer to our website). The Teaching Period for purposes of this policy is defined in hours of published classes from the first day through to the last day of classes, excluding any final examination or assessment.
• Students withdrawing from a Summer School unit of study after 4pm on the relevant census date will receive no refund of their tuition fee.

Transferring between Summer School units
There will be no penalty if a student changes between units of study in the Summer School before the commencement of class. However NO transfers will be allowed after the commencement of the class.

Summer School scholarships
Merit scholarships
Only four merit scholarships are available and are automatically awarded to the top four students who achieve the highest results in their Summer School unit of study.

Educational/Financial Disadvantage scholarships
Partial or full Summer School scholarships are available to local undergraduate students for the Summer School with a good academic record. To be eligible for consideration you will need to provide evidence of long-term and serious educational disadvantage based on two or more criteria, one of which must be financial hardship. Please check our website for further details. Applications close on 27 October 2006.

1. Commencement and purpose of Rule

1.1 This Rule is made by the Senate pursuant to section 37(1) of the University of Sydney Act 1989 for the purposes of the University of Sydney By-Law 1999.

1.2 This Rule comes into force on 1 January 2001.

1.3 This Rule governs all coursework award courses in the University. It is to be read in conjunction with the University of Sydney (Amendment Act) Rule 1999 and the Resolutions of the Senate and the faculty resolutions relating to each award course in that faculty.

Rules relating to coursework award courses

1. Definitions In this Rule:

1.1 award course means a formally approved program of study which can lead to an academic award granted by the University.

1.2 coursework means an award course not designated as a research award course. While the program of study in a coursework award course may include a component of original, supervised research, other forms of instruction and learning normally will be dominant. All undergraduate award courses are coursework award courses.

1.3 credit means advanced standing based on previous attainment in another award course at the University or at another institution. The advanced standing is expressed as credit points granted towards the award course. Credit may be granted as specific credit or non-specific credit.

1.3.1 specific credit means the recognition of previously completed studies as directly equivalent to units of study;

1.3.2 non-specific credit means a ‘block credit’ for a specified number of credit points at a particular level. These credit points may be in a particular subject area but are not linked to a specific unit of study; and

1.3.3 credit points means a measure of value indicating the contribution each unit of study provides towards meeting award course completion requirements stated as a total credit point value.

1.4 dean means the dean of a faculty or the director or principal of an academic college or the chairperson of a board of studies.

1.5 degree means a degree at the level of bachelor or master for the purpose of this Rule.

1.6 embedded courses/programs means award courses in the graduate certificate/graduate diploma/master’s degree by coursework sequence which allow unit of study credit points to count in more than one of the awards.

1.7 faculty means a faculty, college board, a board of studies or the Australian Graduate School of Management Limited as established in each case by its constitution and in these Rules refers to the faculty or faculties responsible for the award course concerned.

1.8 major means a defined program of study, generally comprising specified units of study from later stages of the award course.

1.9 minor means a defined program of study, generally comprising units of study from later stages of the award course and requiring a smaller number of credit points than a major.

1.10 postgraduate award course means an award course leading to the award of a graduate certificate, graduate diploma, degree of master or a doctorate. Normally, a postgraduate award course requires the prior completion of a relevant undergraduate degree or diploma.

1.11 research award course means an award course in which students undertake and report systematic, creative work in order to increase the stock of knowledge. The research award courses offered by the University are: higher doctorate, Doctor of Philosophy, doctorates by research and advanced coursework, and certain degrees of master designated as research degrees. The systematic, creative component of a research award course must comprise at least 66 per cent of the overall award course requirements.

1.12 stream means a defined program of study within an award course, which requires the completion of one program of study specified by the award course rules for the particular stream, in addition to the core program specified by award course rules for the award course.

1.13 student means a person enrolled as a candidate for a course.

1.14 testamur means a certificate of award provided to a graduate, usually at a graduation ceremony.

1.15 transcript or academic transcript means a printed statement setting out a student’s academic record at the University.

1.16 unit of study means the smallest stand-alone component of a student’s award course that is recordable on a student’s transcript. Units of study have an integer credit point value, normally in the range 3–24.

1.17 undergraduate award course means an award course leading to the award of an associate diploma, diploma, advanced diploma or degree of bachelor.

2. Authorities and responsibilities

2.1 Authorities and responsibilities for the functions set out in this Rule are also defined in the document Academic Delegations of Authority. The latter document sets out the mechanisms by which a person who has delegated authority may appoint an agent to perform a particular function.

2.1 The procedures for consideration of, and deadlines for submission of, proposals for new and amended award courses will be determined by the Academic Board.

Division 1: Award course requirements, credit points and assessment

3. Award course requirements

3.1 To qualify for the award of a degree, diploma or certificate, a student must:

3.1.1 complete the award course requirements specified by the Senate for the award of the degree, diploma or certificate concerned;
3.1.2 complete any other award course requirements specified by the Academic Board on the recommendation of the faculty and published in the faculty resolutions relating to the award course;
3.1.3 complete any other award course requirements specified by the faculty in accordance with its delegated authority and published in the faculty resolutions relating to the award course; and
3.1.4 satisfy the requirements of all other relevant by-laws, rules and resolutions of the University.
4. Units of study and credit points
4.1 A unit of study comprises the forms of teaching and learning approved by a faculty. Where the unit of study is being provided specifically for an award course which is the responsibility of another faculty, that faculty must also provide approval.
4.2.1 A faculty has authority to specify the circumstances under which a student completes a unit of study if the student:
4.2.1.1 participate in the learning experiences provided for the unit of study;
4.2.1.2 meets the standards required by the University for academic honesty;
4.2.1.3 meets all examination, assessment and attendance requirements for the unit of study; and 4.2.1.4 passes the required assessments for the unit of study.
4.3 Each unit of study is assigned a specified number of credit points by the faculty responsible for the unit of study.
4.4 The total number of credit points required for completion of an award course will be as specified in the Senate resolutions relating to the award course.
4.5 The total number of credit points required for completion of award courses in an approved combined course will be specified in the Senate or faculty resolutions relating to the award course.
4.6 A student may, under special circumstances, and in accordance with faculty resolutions, be permitted by the relevant dean to undertake a unit or units of study other than those specified in the faculty resolutions relating to the award course and have that unit or those units of study counted towards fulfilling the requirements of the award course in which the student is enrolled.
5. Unit of study assessment
5.1 A student who completes a unit of study will normally be awarded grades of high distinction, distinction, credit or pass, in accordance with policies established by the Academic Board.
The grades high distinction, distinction and credit indicate work of a standard higher than that required for a pass.
5.2 A student who completes a unit of study for which a pass/fail result is available will be recorded as having satisfied requirements.
5.3 In determining the results of a student in any unit of study, the whole of the student's work in the unit of study may be taken into account.
5.4 Examination and assessment in the University are conducted in accordance with the policies and directions of the Academic Board.
6. Attendance
6.1 A faculty has authority to specify the attendance requirements for courses or units of study in that faculty. A faculty must take into account any University policies concerning modes of attendance, equity and disabled access.
6.2 A faculty has authority to specify the circumstances under which a student who does not satisfy attendance requirements may be denied from having completed a unit of study or an award
course.

Division 2: Enrolment
7. Enrolment restrictions
7.1 A student who has completed a unit of study towards the requirements of an award course may not re-enrol in that unit of study, except as permitted by faculty resolution or with the written permission of the dean. A student permitted to re-enrol may receive a higher or lower grade, but not additional credit points.
7.2 Except as provided in section 7.1, a student may not enrol in any unit of study which overlaps substantially in content with a unit that has already been completed or for which credit or exemption has been granted towards the award course requirements.
7.3 A student may not enrol in units of study additional to award course requirements without first obtaining permission from the relevant dean.
7.4 Except as prescribed in faculty resolutions or with the permission of the relevant dean:
7.4.1 a student enrolled in an undergraduate course may not enrol in units of study with a total value of more than 32 credit points in any one semester, or 16 credit points in the summer session; and 7.4.2 a student enrolled in a postgraduate award course may not enrol
in units of study with a total value of more than 24 credit points in any one semester, or 12 credit points in the summer session.

Division 3: Credit, cross-institutional study and their upper limits
8. Credit for previous studies
8.1 Students may be granted credit on the basis of previous studies.
8.2 Notwithstanding any credit granted on the basis of work completed or prior learning in another award course at the University of Sydney or in another institution, in order to qualify for an award a student must:
8.2.1 for undergraduate award courses, complete a minimum of the equivalent of two full-time semesters of the award course at the University; and 8.2.2 for postgraduate award courses, complete at least 50 per cent of the requirements prescribed for the award course at the University.
8.3 The credit granted on the basis of work completed at an institution other than a university normally should not exceed one third of the overall award course requirements.
8.4 A faculty has authority to establish embedded academic sequences in closely related graduate certificate, graduate diploma and master's degree award courses. In such embedded sequences, a student may be granted credit for all or some of the units of study completed in one award of the sequence towards any other award in the sequence, irrespective of whether or not the award has been conferred.
8.5 In an award course offered as part of an approved conjoint venture the provisions for the granting of credit is prescribed in the Resolutions of the Senate and the faculty resolutions relating to that award course.
9. Cross-institutional study
9.1 The relevant dean may permit a student to complete a unit or units of study at another university or institution and have that unit or those units of study credited to the student's award course.
9.2 The relevant dean has authority to determine any conditions applying to cross-institutional study.

Division 4: Progression
10. Repeating a unit of study
10.1 A student who repeats a unit of study shall, unless granted exemption by the relevant dean:
10.1.1 participate in the learning experiences provided for the unit of study; and 10.1.2 meet all examination, assessment and attendance requirements for the unit of study.
10.2 A student who presents for re-assessment in any unit of study is not eligible for any prize or scholarship awarded in connection with that unit of study without the permission of the relevant dean.
11. Time limits
11.1 A student must complete all the requirements for an award course within ten calendar years or any lesser period if specified by resolution of the Senate or the faculty.
Division 5: Discontinuation of enrolment and suspension of candidature

12. Discontinuation of enrolment
12.1 A student who wishes to discontinue enrolment in an award course or a unit of study must apply to the relevant dean and will be presumed to have discontinued enrolment from the date of that application, unless evidence is produced showing:
12.1.1 that the discontinuation occurred at an earlier date; and
12.1.2 that there was good reason why the application could not be made at the earlier time.
12.2 A student who discontinues enrolment during the first year of enrolment in an award course may not re-enrol in that award course unless:
12.2.1 the relevant dean has granted prior permission to re-enrol; or 12.2.2 the student is reselected for admission to candidature for that course.
12.3 No student may discontinue enrolment in an award course or unit of study after the end of classes in that award course or unit of study, unless he or she produces evidence that:
12.3.1 the discontinuation occurred at an earlier date; and
12.3.2 there was good reason why the application could not be made at the earlier time.
12.4 A discontinuation of enrolment may be recorded as 'Withdrawn (W)' or 'Discontinued -- not to count as failure (DNF)' where that discontinuation occurs within the time-frames specified by the University and published by the faculty, or where the student meets other conditions as specified by the relevant faculty.

13. Suspension of candidature
13.1 A student must be enrolled in each semester in which he or she is actively completing the requirements for the award course. A student who wishes to suspend candidature must first obtain approval from the relevant dean.
13.2 The candidature of a student who has not re-enrolled and who has not obtained approval from the dean for suspension will be deemed to have lapsed.
13.3 A student whose candidature has lapsed must apply for re-admission in accordance with procedures determined by the relevant faculty.
13.4 A student who enrols after suspending candidature shall complete the requirements for the award course under such conditions as determined by the dean.

Division 6: Unsatisfactory progress and exclusion

14. Satisfactory progress
14.1 A faculty has authority to determine what constitutes satisfactory progress for all students enrolled in award courses in that faculty, in accordance with the policies and directions of the Senate Academic Board.

15. Requirement to show good cause
15.1 For the purposes of this Rule, 'good cause' means circumstances beyond the reasonable control of a student, which may include serious ill health or misadventure, but does not include demands of employers, pressure of employment or time devoted to non-University activities, unless these are relevant to serious ill health or misadventure. In all cases the onus is on the student to provide the University with satisfactory evidence to establish good cause. The University may take into account relevant aspects of a student's record in other courses or units of study within the University and relevant aspects of academic studies at other institutions provided that the student presents this information to the University.

15.2 The relevant dean may require a student who has not made satisfactory progress to show good cause why he or she should be allowed to re-enrol.

15.3 The dean will permit a student who has shown good cause to re-enrol.

16. Exclusion for failure to show good cause
The dean may, where good cause has not been established:
16.1 exclude the student from the relevant course; or 16.2 permit the student to re-enrol in the relevant award course subject to restrictions on units of study, which may include, but are not restricted to:
16.2.1 completion of a unit or units of study within a specified time; 16.2.2 exclusion from a unit or units of study, provided that the dean must first consult the head of the department responsible for the unit or units of study; and 16.2.3 specification of the earliest date upon which a student may re-enrol in a unit or units of study.

17. Applying for re-admission after exclusion
17.1 A student who has been excluded from an award course or from a unit or units of study may apply to the relevant dean for re-admission to the award course or re-enrolment in the unit or units of study concerned after at least four semesters, and that dean may readmit the student to the award course or permit the student to re-enrol in the unit or units of study concerned.
17.2 With the written approval of the relevant dean, a student who has been excluded may be given credit for any work completed elsewhere in the University or in another university during a period of exclusion.

18. Appeals against exclusion
18.1 In this Rule a reference to the Appeals Committee is a reference to the Senate Student Appeals Committee (Exclusions and Re-admissions).

18.2.1 A student who has been excluded in accordance with this Rule may apply to the Appeals Committee.
18.2.1.1 A student who has applied for re-admission to an award course or re-enrolment in a unit of study after a period of exclusion, and who is refused re-admission or re-enrolment may also apply to the Appeals Committee.
18.2.2 The Appeals Committee shall comprise:
18.2.2.1 three ex officio members (the Chancellor, the Deputy Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellor and Principal);
18.2.2.2 the Chair and Deputy Chair of the Senate Academic Board;
18.2.2.3 two student Fellows; and
18.2.2.4 up to four other Fellows.
18.2.3 The Appeals Committee may meet as one or more subcommittees providing that each subcommittee shall include at least one member of each of the categories of:
18.2.3.1 ex officio member;
18.2.3.2 Chair or Deputy Chair of the Academic Board;
18.2.3.3 student Fellow; and 18.2.3.4 other Fellows.

18.2.4 Three members shall constitute a quorum for a meeting of the Appeals Committee or a subcommittee.

18.2.5 The Appeals Committee and its subcommittees have authority to hear and determine all such appeals and must report its decision to the Senate annually.

18.2.6 The Appeals Committee or a subcommittee may uphold or disallow any appeal and, at its discretion, may determine the earliest date within a maximum of four semesters at which a student who has been excluded shall be permitted to apply to re-enrol.

18.2.7 No appeal shall be determined without granting the student the opportunity to appear in person before the Appeals Committee or subcommittee considering the appeal. A student so appearing may be accompanied by a friend or adviser.

18.2.8 The Appeals Committee or subcommittee may hear the relevant dean but that dean may only be present at those stages at which the student is permitted to be present. Similarly, the dean is entitled to be present when the Committee or subcommittee hears the student.

18.2.9 If, due notice having been given, a student fails to attend a meeting of the Appeals Committee or subcommittee scheduled to consider that student's appeal, the Appeals Committee or subcommittee, at its discretion, may defer determination of the appeal or may proceed to determine the appeal.

18.2.10 A student who has been excluded in accordance with these resolutions and has lodged a timely appeal against that exclusion may re-enrol pending determination of that appeal if it has not been determined by the commencement of classes in the next appropriate semester.

Division 7: Exceptional circumstances

19. Variation of award course requirements in exceptional circumstances
19.1 The relevant dean may vary any requirement for a particular student enrolled in an award course in that faculty where, in the opinion of the dean, exceptional circumstances exist.

21.3 Classes which may be used for the award of honours are:
   21.3.1 First Class
   21.3.2 Second Class/Division 1
   21.3.3 Second Class/Division 2
   21.3.4 Third Class
21.4 With respect to award courses which include an additional honours year:
   21.4.1 a student may not graduate with the pass degree while enrolled in the honours year;

25.1 This Rule applies to all candidates for degrees, diplomas and certificates who commence candidature after 1 January 2001.
25.2 Candidates who commenced candidature prior to this date may choose to proceed in accordance with the resolutions of the Senate in force at the time they enrolled, except that the faculty may determine specific conditions for any student who has re-enrolled in an award course after a period of suspension.

Freedom of Information
The University of Sydney falls within the jurisdiction of the NSW Freedom of Information Act, 1989. The act:

• requires information concerning documents held by the University to be made available to the public;
• enables a member of the public to obtain access to documents held by the University; and
• enables a member of the public to ensure that records held by the University concerning his or her personal affairs are not incomplete, incorrect, out of date or misleading.

(Note that a 'member of the public' includes staff and students of the University.)

It is a requirement of the act that applications be processed and a determination made within a specified time period, generally 21 days. Determinations are made by the University's Registrar.

While application may be made to access University documents, some may not be released in accordance with particular exemptions provided by the act. There are review and appeal mechanisms which apply when access has been refused.

The University is required to report to the public on its freedom of information (FOI) activities on a regular basis and to produce two documents: a Statement of Affairs (annually) and a Summary of Affairs (every six months). The Statement of Affairs contains information about the University, its structure, function and the kinds of documents held. The Summary of Affairs identifies the University's policy documents and provides information on how to make an application for access to University documents.

Further information and copies of the current Statement and Summary may be found at http://www.usyd.edu.au/arms/foi

(Grievances) Appeals
You may consider that a decision affecting your candidature for a degree or other activities at the University has not taken into account all relevant matters.

In some cases the by-laws or resolutions of the Senate (see the University Calendar: http://www.usyd.edu.au/about/ publication/pub/calendar.shtml) provide for a right of appeal against particular decisions; for example, there is provision for appeal against academic decisions, disciplinary decisions and exclusion after failure.

A document outlining the current procedures for appeals against academic decisions is available at the Student Centre, at the SRC, and on the University's policy online website: http://www.usyd.edu.au/policy (click on 'Study at the University', then click on 'Appeals' – see the Academic Board and Senate resolutions).

Library
The University of Sydney Library, the largest academic library in the Southern Hemisphere, is a network of 17 libraries located on nine campuses. The Library website (http://www.library.usyd.edu.au) provides access to services and resources, anywhere at anytime. The locations, opening hours and subject specialities of the libraries are listed on the website.

Over five million items are available via the Library catalogue, including more than 68,000 electronic journals and 281,000 electronic books. Past exam papers are also available online. Enrolled students are entitled to borrow from any of the University Libraries. More information is available at http://www.library.usyd.edu.au/borrowing.

Reading list items are available via the reserve service. Increasingly, reading list material is becoming available in electronic form. For details see the reserve service website: (http://opac.library.usyd.edu.au/screens/reserve.html).

Library staff are always available to support students in their studies. 'Ask a Librarian' in person, by email, or by using an online chat service (http://www.library.usyd.edu.au/contacts/index.html).

A specialist librarian is available for all discipline areas and will provide training in finding high quality information. Courses cover a range of skills including research methodology, database searching, effective use of the Internet and the use of reference management software. See the subject contact page: (http://www.library.usyd.edu.au/contacts/subjectcontacts.html).

Library facilities include individual and group study spaces, computers, printers, multimedia equipment, photocopiers and adaptive technologies. Check the 'Libraries' link on the home page (http://www.library.usyd.edu.au) to find out about services and facilities in specific libraries.

The Client Service Charter describes the Library’s commitment to supporting students’ learning, including those with special needs. See the Client Service Charter online (http://www.library.usyd.edu.au/about/policies/clientcharter.html).

MyUni Student Portal
The MyUni student portal (http://myuni.usyd.edu.au) is the starting point and ‘one-stop’ environment for students to access all their web-based University information and services.

MyUni automatically tailors what a student sees based on their login-in and offers students the option of further personalising content. Most importantly, MyUni allows students to complete tasks online that would previously have required attendance in person. The following are examples of MyUni services and information:
Part-time, full-time

Undergraduate students
Undergraduate students are usually considered full-time if they have a student load of at least 0.375 each semester. Anything under this amount is considered a part-time study load.

Note that some faculties have minimum study load requirements for satisfactory progress.

Postgraduate students (Coursework)
For postgraduate coursework students part-time or full-time status is determined by credit-point load. Enrolment in units of study which total at least 18 credit points in a semester is classed as full-time. Anything under this amount is a part-time study load.

Please note that classes for some coursework programs are held in the evenings (usually 6–9pm).

Postgraduate students (Research)
Full-time candidates for research degrees do not keep to the normal semester schedule, instead they work continuously throughout the year with a period of four weeks recreation leave. There is no strict definition of what constitutes full-time candidature but if you have employment or other commitments that would prevent you from devoting at least the equivalent of a 35-hour working week to your candidature (including attendance at the University for lectures, seminars, practical work and consultation with your supervisor) you should enrol as a part-time candidate. If in doubt you should consult your faculty or supervisor.

International students
Student visa regulations require international students to undertake full-time study. International students on visas other than student visas may be permitted to study part-time.

Policy online
In addition to the resolutions covering specific courses there are a number of University policies that apply to students. These include:

- The code of conduct for students
- Academic honesty in coursework
- Student plagiarism: Coursework assessment and examination of coursework

All of these policies can be accessed from the University's Policy website online (http://www.usyd.edu.au/policy).

Privacy
The University is subject to the NSW Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998 and the NSW Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002. Central to both acts are the sets of information protection principles (IPPs) and health privacy principles which regulate the collection, management, use and disclosure of personal and health information. In compliance with the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act the University developed a Privacy Management Plan which includes the University Privacy Policy. The Privacy Management Plan sets out the IPPs and how they apply to functions and activities carried out by the University. Both the plan and the University Privacy Policy were endorsed by the Vice-Chancellor on 28 June 2000.

Further information and a copy of the plan may be found at http://www.usyd.edu.au/arms/privacy.

Any questions regarding the Freedom of Information Act, the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act, the Health Records and Information Privacy Act or the Privacy Management Plan should be directed to:

Student Services
The University provides personal, welfare, administrative and academic support services to facilitate your success at University. Many factors can impact on your wellbeing while studying at university and student services can assist you in managing and handling these more effectively. The Sydney Summer School
Most faculties at the University offer units of study from undergraduate degree programs during summer. There are also some units of study available for postgraduate coursework programs from some faculties. As the University uses its entire quota of Commonwealth supported places in first and second semester, these units are full fee-paying for both local and international students and enrolment is entirely voluntary. However, Summer School units enable students to accelerate their degree progress, make up for a failed unit or fit in a unit which otherwise would not suit their timetables. New students may also gain a head start by completing subjects before they commence their degrees. Units start at various times from late November and run for up to six weeks (followed by an examination week). Notice of the units available is on the Summer School website and is usually circulated to students with their results notices. A smaller Winter School is also run from the Summer School office. It commences on 3 July and runs for up to three weeks (followed by an examination week). It offers mainly postgraduate and a few undergraduate units of study.

Information can be found on the Summer School website: http://www.summer.usyd.edu.au.

International students

The following information is for international students studying onshore on an Australian Student Visa.

Full-time study
International students must maintain full-time enrolment at all times (a minimum of 18 credit points). However, in the following limited circumstances, part-time study is permitted:

- students studying in Australia on a different type of visa that does not carry study restrictions;
- students in their final semester who are required to take additional units to complete their course;
- cross-institutional students enrolled full-time at their home institution;
- students enrolled in an approved joint delivery program that involves enrolment at two institutions.

Satisfactory academic progress
The University is required to report to the Department of Immigration and Multicultural Affairs (DIMA) any International Student who fails to maintain satisfactory academic progress. This may result in automatic visa cancellation. It is important that International Students contact the International Office if they are experiencing academic difficulties.

Distance/web-based study
International students studying onshore in Australia are not permitted to enrol in distance or web-based courses. However, a small number of web-based units within a course taught largely in face-to-face mode are allowed. Contact the faculty to discuss enrolment options.

Work permits
International students with a work permit are permitted to work for up to 20 hours during semester and full-time during the University's official vacation periods. Contact the International Office for more information.

Change of address
International Students must notify the University of their residential address within seven days of arrival and notify any change of address within seven days. This may be done via the University’s MyUni Web portal.

Course transfers
Sponsored students will need permission from their sponsors before transferring courses. Australian Government sponsored students (AusAID, Endeavour) and Asia Development Bank (ADB) sponsored students should contact the International Office in the early stages of considering a course transfer.

Suspension/discontinuation
The University is required to report to DIMA international students who discontinue or suspend their studies. Students who suspend their studies for severe medical or compassionate reasons should contact the International Office urgently.

Overseas student health cover
Australian Student Visa holders must maintain overseas health cover for the duration of their stay. The International Office arranges health cover for the first year but it is the individual student’s responsibility to maintain health cover for each subsequent year.

Additional information
For more information related to international students, please see the Glossary in this handbook.

A postgraduate award. Master's degree courses may be offered by coursework, research only or a combination of coursework and research. Entry to the course often requires completion of an honours year at an undergraduate level. (See also Award course.)

Method of candidature
A course is either a research course or a coursework course and so the methods of candidature are 'research' and 'coursework'. (See also Course – Coursework, Course – Research.)

Minor
Studies undertaken to support a Major. Requiring a smaller number of credit points than a major students select and transfer between minors (and majors) by virtue of their selection of units of study. One or more minors may be awarded upon the graduand's assessment of study. (See also Award course, Major, Stream.)

The Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) and other doctorate awards are the highest awards available at the University. A PhD course is normally purely research-based; the candidate submits a thesis that is an original contribution to the field of study. (See also Award course, Doctorate.)

Plagiarism
Presenting another person's ideas, findings or work as one's own by copying or reproducing them without the acknowledgement of the source. (See also Academic dishonesty.)

Postgraduate
A term used to describe a course leading to an award such as graduate diploma, a master's degree or PhD which usually requires prior completion of a relevant undergraduate degree (or diploma) course. 'A postgraduate' is a student enrolled in such a course. (See also Course – Coursework, Course – Research.)

Postgraduate Education Loans Scheme (PELS)
An interest-free loans facility for eligible students who are enrolled in fee-paying, postgraduate non-research courses. It is similar to the deferred payment arrangements available under the Higher Education Contribution Scheme (HECS). This scheme was replaced by the FEE-HELP scheme on 1 January 2005. (See FEE-HELP Loan.)

Potential graduand
A student who has been identified as being eligible to graduate on the satisfactory completion of their current studies. (See also Graduand, Graduation.)

Pre-enrolment
Pre-enrolment - also known as provisional re-enrolment – takes place in October, when students indicate their choice of unit of study enrolment for the following year. After results are approved, pre-enrolment students are regarded as enrolled in those units of study for which they are qualified. Their status is 'enrolled' and remains so provided they pay any money owing and comply with other requirements by the due date. Students who do not successfully pre-enrol in their units of study for the next regular session are required to attend the University on set dates during the January/February enrolment period. (See also Enrolment.)

Prerequisite
A unit of study that is required to be successfully completed before another unit of study can be attempted. Prerequisites can be mandatory (compulsory) or advisory. (See also Assumed knowledge, Corequisite, Waiver, Qualifier.)

Prizes
Awarded in recognition of outstanding performance, academic achievement or service to the community or University.

Probationary candidature
A student who is enrolled in a postgraduate course on probation for a period of time up to one year. The head of department is required to consider the candidate’s progress during the period of probation and make a recommendation for normal candidature or otherwise to the faculty.

Professional practice
Students undertake placement in a professional practice as a part of their course requirements. May require University approved supervision. Professional placements are located in a wide range of professional practices environments, and may not require additional criteria to be fulfilled.

Progression
Satisfactory progression is satisfying all course and faculty rules (normally assessed on an annual basis) to enable the completion of the chosen award within the (maximum) completion time allowed. (See also Exclusion.)

Prohibited combinations of units of study
When two or more units of study contain a sufficient overlap of content, enrolment in any one such unit prohibits enrolment in any other identified unit. (See also unit of study.)

Provisional re-enrolment
(See Pre-enrolment.)

Qualification
An academic attainment recognised by the University.

Qualifier
A mandatory (compulsory) prerequisite unit of study which must have a grade of pass or better. (See also Assumed knowledge, Corequisite, Prerequisite, Waiver.)

R
Recycling
The submission for assessment of one's own work, or of work which substantially the same, which has previously been counted towards the satisfactory completion of another unit of study, and credited towards a university degree, and where the examiner has not been informed that the student has already received credit for that work.

Registration
In addition to enrolling with the faculty in units of study, students must register with the department responsible for teaching each unit. This is normally done during Orientation Week. Note that unlike enrolment, registration is not a formal record of units attempted by the student.

Research course
(See Course – Research.)

Research supervisor
A supervisor is appointed to each student undertaking a research postgraduate degree. The supervisor will be a full-time member of the academic staff or a person external to the University recognised for their association with the clinical teaching or the research work of the University. A research supervisor is commonly referred to as a supervisor. (See also Advisor, Associate supervisor, Instrumental supervisor/teacher, Supervision.)

Result processing
Refers to the processing of assessment results for units of study. For each unit of study, departments tabulate results for all assessment activities and assign preliminary results. (See also Assessment, Formative assessment, Examination period, Summative assessment.)

Result processing schedule
The result processing schedule will be determined for each academic cycle. All departments and faculties are expected to comply with this schedule. (See also Assessment, Examination period, Result processing.)

Result

Any offering of an undergraduate unit not conforming to the semester dates (non-standard session) must be given special permission by the Academic Board.
(See also Session, Non-standard session.)

Semester address
The address to which all official University correspondence is sent during semester time, if it is different to the permanent address.

Senate
The governing body of the University.
(See the University Calendar for more details of its charter and powers.)

Senate appeals
Senate appeals are held for those students who, after being excluded by a faculty from a course, appeal to the Senate for readmission. While any student may appeal to the Senate against an academic decision, such an appeal will normally be heard only after the student has exhausted all other avenues, i.e. the department, faculty, board of study and, in the case of postgraduates, the Committee for Graduate Studies.
(See also Exclusion.)

Session
Any period of time during which a unit of study is taught. A session differs from a semester in that it need not be a six-month teaching period, but it cannot be longer than six months. Each session maps to either Semester One or Two for DEST reporting purposes. Session offerings are approved by the relevant dean, taking into account all the necessary resources, including teaching space and staffing. The Academic Board must approve variation to the normal session pattern.
(See also Semester, Non-standard teaching period.)

Session address
(See Semester address.)

Short course
A fee paying student undertaking a short course with the University of Sydney comprising professional development, executive training etc. The study undertaken by these students is a non-award course.

The card identifies the student as eligible to attend classes and must be displayed at formal examinations. It must be presented to secure student concessions and to borrow books from all sections of the University Library.

Student progress rate (SPR)
A calculation which measures the rate at which load undertaken is passed annually in each award program.

(See also International student, Domestic student, Exchange student.)

Study Abroad program
A scheme administered by the International Office which allows international students who are not part of an exchange program to take units of study at the University of Sydney, but not towards an award program. In most cases the units of study taken here are credited towards an award at their home institution.
(See also Exchange student.)

Subject area
A unit of study may be associated with one or more subject areas. The subject area can be used to define prerequisite and course rules, e.g. the unit of study ‘History of Momoyama and Edo Art’ may count towards the requirements for the subject areas ‘Art History and Theory’ and ‘Asian Studies’.

Summative assessment
(See Assessment.)

Summer School
(See Sydney Summer School.)

Supervising faculty
The faculty which has the responsibility for managing the academic administration of a particular course, i.e. the interpretation and administration of course rules, approving students’ enrolments and variations to enrolments. Normally the supervising faculty is the faculty offering the course.

However, in the case of combined courses, one of the two faculties involved will usually be designated the supervising faculty. Further, in the case where one course is jointly offered by two or more faculties (e.g. the Liberal Studies course), a joint committee may make academic decisions about candidature and the student may be assigned a supervising faculty for administration.
Supervision
Refers to a one-to-one relationship between a student and a nominated member of the academic staff or a person specifically appointed to the role.
(See also Advisor, Associate supervisor, Instrumental supervisor/teacher, Research supervisor.)

Suppression of results

Suspension
(See Course leave.)

Sydney Summer School
A program of accelerated, intensive study running for approximately six weeks during January and February each year. Both undergraduate and postgraduate units are offered. Summer School provides an opportunity for students at Sydney and other universities to catch up on needed units of study, to accelerate completion of a course or to undertake a unit that is outside their award course.

All units attract full fees and enrolled students are also liable for compulsory subscriptions. Some fee-waiver scholarships are available.

Semester Weighted Average Mark (SWAM)
Is the WAM calculated over all units of study undertaken in a semester (except those ‘Discontinued – Not to count as failure’ and those with only a ‘Satisfied Requirements’ result), weighted according to credit point value. The SWAM may be expressed as:

\[ SWAM = \frac{\sum (\text{Mark} \times \text{Credit points})}{\sum (\text{Credit points})} \]

U

Universities Admissions Centre (UAC)
The UAC receives and processes applications for admission to undergraduate courses at recognised universities in NSW and the ACT. Most commencing, local undergraduate students at the University apply through the UAC.

Universities Admission Index (UAI)
A measure of overall academic achievement in the HSC that assists universities in ranking applicants for university selection. The UAI is based on the aggregate of scaled marks in ten units of the HSC, and is a number between 0.00 and 100.00 with increments of 0.05.

Under examination
Indicates that a research student has submitted their written work (thesis) for assessment, and is awaiting the finalisation of the examiners’ outcome and recommendation.

Undergraduate
A term used to describe both a course leading to a diploma or bachelor’s degree and a student enrolled in such a course.

Unit of study
Unit of study or unit means a stand-alone component of an award course. Each unit of study is the responsibility of a department. (See also Prohibited combinations of unit of study.)

Unit of study enrolment status
The enrolment status indicates whether the student is still actively attending the unit of study (i.e. currently enrolled) or is no longer enrolled. (See also Discontinuation or Cancellation.)

Unit of study level
Units of study are divided into Junior, Intermediate, Senior, Honours, Year 5, and Year 6. Most majors consist of 32 Senior credit points in a subject area (either 3000 level units of study or a mix of 2000 and 3000 level units of study).

University
Unless otherwise indicated, University in this document refers to the University of Sydney.

University Medal
A faculty may recommend the award of a University Medal to a student qualified for the award of an undergraduate honours degree (or some master’s degrees); whose academic performance is judged to be outstanding.

V

Variation of enrolment
(See Enrolment variation.)
Vice-Chancellor and Principal
The chief executive officer of the University, responsible for its leadership and management. The Vice-Chancellor and Principal is head of both academic and administrative divisions.

W
Waiver
In a prescribed course, a faculty may waive the prerequisite or corequisite requirement for a unit of study or the course rules for a particular student. Unlike credit, waivers do not involve a reduction in the number of credit points required for a course. (See also Credit, Exemption.)

Winter School
An intensive session offered by the University during the mid-year break.

Weighted average mark (WAM)
This mark uses the unit of study credit point value in conjunction with an agreed 'weight'. The formula for this calculation is:

\[ WAM = \frac{\sum (W_c \times M_c)}{\sum (W_c)} \]

Where \(W_c\) is the weighted credit point value – i.e. the product of the credit point value and the level of weighting of 1, 2, 3, or 4 for a first, second, third or fourth year unit of study respectively; and where \(M_c\) is the greater of 45 or the mark out of 100 for the unit of study.

The mark is the actual mark obtained by the student for the unit of study, or in the case of a failing grade with no mark – 0. Pass/fail assessed subjects and credit transfer subjects (from another institution) are excluded from these calculations; however, the marks from all attempts at a unit of study are included. (Effective from 1 January 2004.)

In addition, faculties may adopt other average mark formulae for specific progression or entry requirements. If such a formula is not specified in the faculty resolutions, the formula outlined above is used. (See also WAM weight.)

WAM weight
A weight assigned to each unit of study to assist in the calculation of WAMs.

Y
Year of first enrolment (YFE)
The year in which a student first enrols at the University. (See also Commencement date.)

Youth Allowance
Youth Allowance is payable to a full-time student or trainee aged 16–24 years of age who is enrolled at an approved institution such as a school, college, TAFE or university, and undertaking at least 15 hours a week face-to-face contact.
