Acknowledgments

Many people helped in the writing of this thesis. First and foremost I'd like to thank my supervisor, Alison Bashford, who took me on in a research year, who was supportive of my ideas and whose comments and advice on writing were always helpful and constructive. Thanks to Richard White for advice about introductions and Kirsten McKenzie for recommending tropical medicine as an essay topic two-and-a-bit years ago. Special thanks have to go to Alyson Dalby and Christine Miller at the library of the Royal Australasian College of Physicians for their vital help in finding the main primary source material. Lastly, I'd like to thank my family for their understanding and support.
