Kids Count
Better early childhood education and care in Australia

Edited by Elizabeth Hill, Barbara Pocock and Alison Elliott
Child care: A better policy framework for Australia

Acknowledgements .......................................................................................................................... v
Author biographies .......................................................................................................................... vi

Introduction
Elizabeth Hill, Barbara Pocock and Alison Elliott ................................................................. 1

Part 1 Defining a high quality ECEC system
1 The childcare policy challenge in Australia ................................................................. 15
   Barbara Pocock and Elizabeth Hill
2 Lessons from the Swedish experience .............................................................. 38
   Anita Nyberg
3 Home and away: the policy context in Australia ........................................... 57
   Deborah Brennan
4 The new discrimination and child care ......................................................... 75
   Patricia Apps

Part 2 Setting the goals for a national system
5 The goals of a good national system: placing priority on the wellbeing of children 97
   Bettina Cass
6 Getting the basics right – goals that would deliver a good national children’s services system .......... 112
   Lynne Wannan

Part 3 Perceptions of child care
7 Contested, corporatised and confused? Australian attitudes to child care ................................. 137
   Gabrielle Meagher
8 Employees’ views on quality ..............................................................154
    Emma Rush

Part 4 The question of quality

9   Public investment, fragmentation and quality care – existing challenges and future options .................................181
    Frances Press

10  Improving early childhood quality through standards, accreditation and registration ............................................199
    Alison Elliott

11  The determinants of quality care: review and research report .................................................................220
    Margaret Sims

Part 5 Who should pay? Who should provide?

    Joy Goodfellow

13  Funding children’s services .....................................................272
    Eva Cox

Appendix 1

Participants at ASSA workshop Child care: A better policy framework for Australia, University of Sydney.........................289

Index ..................................................................................................291
Acknowledgements

The Academy for the Social Sciences in Australia, the Faculty of Economics and Business at the University of Sydney, and the Centre for Work + Life at the University of South Australia provided the funding and administrative support for the national workshop Childcare: A Better Policy Framework for Australia held in July 2006.