This commercial and residential building is placed along the Nakamise Street, Asakusa, Tokyo, Japan. One of this building’s specialised functions is that each level has roof top garden in order to provide hint of nature and place for rest in the middle of busy city. Also, providing light effect and open space between each level is to attract people from any direction. Besides, spectacular view can be enjoyed at any level due to the height of the building.