The Fabrica de la música is a music store which has three levels of instruments as well as three distinct performance areas. In these performance areas, music can be created and shared. Onlookers may be inspired by the music and perhaps take up a musical instrument themselves. This building promotes the creation and sharing of music made by all Madridians and adds to its already musical culture.