THE BOOKSHOP
The bookshop is located in Jerusalem and is made of Jerusalem stone. As one enters the building, the red stairs are the first thing they notice. The stairs are the main feature of the bookstore, with one side taking visitors to the second floor, and the other to the first floor.

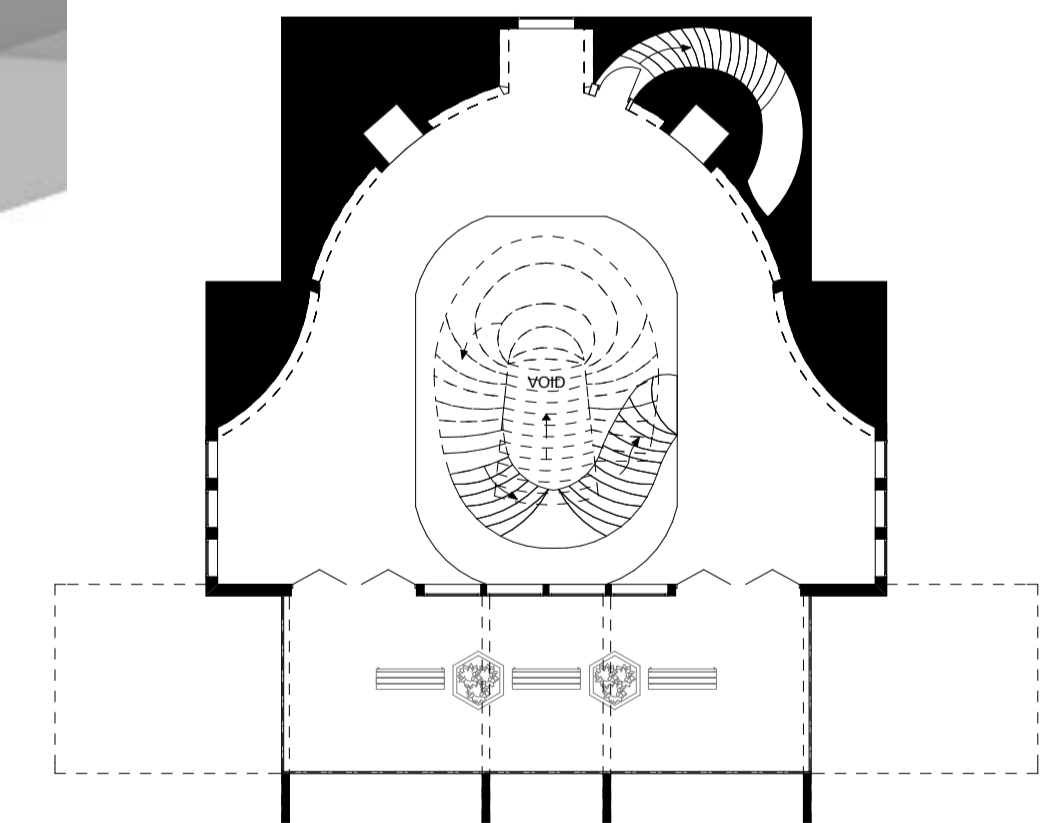

The curved walls of the building were formed by the circulation of each level. The outdoor courtyards and in-wall seating hubs leave people with areas to read while in the bookshop. The bookshop is a great area for people of all religions to visit and interact with one another.
