Figure 7.2  Road survey completed by Jully (1913) showing two Southeast roads

Figure 7.3  Idealized map of Angkorian transport network from Ishizawa and Tamura (1999)
Figure 7.4 Aymonier’s 1901 map showing location of secondary roads between Preah Srok (Phnom Srok) and Banteai Chhma (Banteay Chhmar) and between Preah Srok and Spean Toeup
Figure 7.5a-b  Variable dimensions of Angkorian roads (a) Northwest road (b) East road
Figure 7.6a-b  Examples of laterite paving (a) causeway at Banteay Samre and (b) on surface of bridge at Spean Ta Ong on the East road
Figure 7.7a-b  Stone bridges (a) Spean Ta Ong on East road and (b) Spean Praptos on Southeast Upper road
Figure 7.8a-b  Naga balustrade (a) section of balustrade collapsed on Spean Khmeng, East road and (b) hooded naga at end of balustrade on Spean Ta Ong, East road
Figure 7.9a-b  Culvert bridges along (a) West road and (b) Northwest road
Figure 7.10a-b  Bridge construction (a) skirt foundation of Spean Ta Ong, East road and (b) terrace embankment at same bridge
Figure 7.11a-c  Modification of Buddha image in naga balustrades (a) unmodified Buddha at Spean Khmeng, East road and (b-c) recarved Buddha image at Spean Ta Ong, East road
Figure 7.12  ‘Teap Chei’ (gîtes d’étape) style resthouse at Preah Khan (Angkor)

Figure 7.13  Plan and profile of gîtes d’étape architectural form
Figure 7.14a-b  Different types of gîtes d'étapes (a) laterite - Ban Bu, Northwest road and (b) sandstone - Banteay Chhmar, temple enclosure
Figure 7.15  Examples of the temple d’étape architectural plan

Figure 7.16  Aerial image of Banteay Ampil temple d’étape
Figure 7.17  Outline of the baray at Preah Khan KS, only partially full today

Figure 7.18  Stone-lined tank at the Baphuon
Figure 7.19a-b  Ox carts (a) bas relief depiction on the Bayon and (b) modern ox cart
Figure 7.20a-b  Military transportation depicted in the bas reliefs of Angkor Wat (a) elephants and (b) chariots
Figure 7.21  Boat with Khmer warriors depicted on the bas-reliefs of the Bayon

Figure 7.22  Chinese warriors depicted on the bas-reliefs of the Bayon
Figure 8.1  Map showing original traces of Angkorian roads recorded from 19th century surveys

Figure 8.2  Boundary of study area around Angkor not included in the remote sensing survey
Figure 8.3  Areas covered by ASTER and aerial photographs

Figure 8.4  Comparison of resolution of ASTER and aerial photographs for mapping tanks
Figure 8.5  The ultralight plane at the landing strip, Tbeang Meancheey, Preah Vihear province

Figure 8.6  Flight paths of ultralight surveys
Figure 8.7a-b  Ground survey along the Angkorian roads (a) Northwest (b) East