The city of Paris is the capital of France and is home to roughly 2.1 million inhabitants. From its humble beginnings as a celtic village, Paris has grown into one of the most cultured cities of the world. One of its most treasured jewels is the Place Vendome.

The Place Vendome is located in the first Arrondissement, which specifically caters for the rich, the famous and every other type of privileged people. The area features upscale restaurants, high end fashion retailers and classy bars/cafes. Also, within a short distance of 500 meters, radiating out of Trajans Column, many luxury hotels can be found, including the Ritz and the Park Hyatt.

With such a demand for good quality food, it would be logical that good quality chefs would also be on high demand. This culinary school seeks satisfy this supply.
