The biographical outline of Wakelin's life that follows has been compiled partly from the fresh information I have found during my research, but mostly from the Chronology in the Catalogue to the "Roland Wakelin Retrospective" exhibition (Art Gallery of N.S.W., April, 1967, pp. 20-22). The biographical data contained in this was gained directly from Wakelin - thus establishing its accuracy. It is also the most comprehensive account of the major events in Wakelin's life to date and has proven invaluable during the course of my research. My thanks to the Art Gallery of N.S.W. for compilation of this material. Completed during Wakelin's lifetime it carries much more authority than anything assembled posthumously.
1887  Roland Shakespeare Wakelin, born April 17 at Greytown in the Wairarapa Valley about fifty miles from Wellington in New Zealand's North Island. Youngest child of six sons and one daughter of Richard Alfred and Emily Wakelin (born Noakes). Attended local school.

1902  Family moved to Wellington. Won a scholarship to the Wellington Technical College. Passed matriculation and civil service examinations here at end of 1903 (aged fifteen).

1904  Spent three months as an office boy with a commercial firm, then received civil service appointment to Stamp Office. Began attending Wellington Technical College art classes at nights and on Saturdays. First painting teacher a little known artist, Henry Bastings.

1905  October - First participation in Annual Competition of New Zealand Academy of Fine Arts (two landscapes).

1906  September - Annual Competition - second prize (no first awarded) in Class II (figure from the antique) and equal third in Class V (landscape or marine study in oils or watercolours).

1907  Transferred to Land and Income Tax Dept.

1907-8  - Death of parents.

1908  First entries in Annual Exhibition of N.Z. Academy - three oil paintings. Late 1908-9 - visited brother Frank in Sydney for a few weeks over summer holiday period.

1909  September - One oil (Willows and Pool) exhibited in Annual Exhibition of Academy.
1910 October - Two landscapes (in oils) exhibited with Academy.

1911 One work, 8 A.M., exhibited with N.Z. Academy. Received very sympathetic and encouraging reviews in two local newspapers.

1913 At beginning of year enrolled in the art classes of the Royal Art Society of N.S.W. at Vickery's Chambers, 76 Pitt St, Sydney. Here attended life classes under A. Dattilo Rubbo and Norman Carter four nights a week and painting on Saturday afternoons with Rubbo. Remained at these classes for about three years. On Sundays painted landscape in the open air. Later in year, return of Norah Simpson from London where she had studied art under Gilman, Gore and Ginner - English 'Post-Impressionists.' Had also seen French Post-Impressionists at firsthand on visits to Paris. Ideas encouraged by Rubbo. Impact on Wakelin. Also influenced by E. Phillips Fox's impressionist-inspired works in his exhibition at the R.A.S. in October.

Worked at Federal Land Tax Office until outbreak of W.W. I. Lived in rooms at Waruda St., Kirribilli. Later moved next door where watercolourist, G.K. Townshend lived. Here met Estelle Robinson whom he married on October 15.
1914  Won a free year's tuition at R.A.S. for a sketch of a large work entitled The Toilers. Painted version of this was Wakelin's first contribution to a Sydney exhibition. Was rejected by R.A.S. but accepted by the Society of Artists (under Julian Ashton) for their annual exhibition.

Worked as a ticket writer in Mark Foys' and David Jones' department stores. Lived in several places in McMahon's Point and Woollhara where son Roland was born, 5 December.

1915  Three works accepted by the R.A.S. including Pearl Bay and the still existent painting, The Fruit Seller of Farm Cove. Grace Cossington Smith exhibited her Post-Impressionist inspired work, The Sock Knitter.

Worked as a clerk at Victoria Barracks and State Income Tax Office, Circular Quay.

1916  Shown an article in Forum magazine on Cezanne by Willard Huntington Wright. Partial understanding of the French artist's insistence on 'structure' revealed in Down The Hills to Berry's Bay painted that year. Great admiration for Cezanne. Moved to cottage in Bay Road (now Waverton) which he called "Cezanne".

Down the Hills . . . and three other works shown in annual R.A.S. exhibition, but (with Rubbo) was criticized in press. On Council of R.A.S. for one year. Late 1916 - joined commercial art firm of Smith and Julius, 24 Bond St., Sydney, run by Sydney Ure Smith.
A rather quiet year. No contributions to R.A.S. or Society of Artists' annual exhibitions. No large-scale, important works surviving.
Remained with Smith and Julius. Became friends with John Young who had a picture framing business in Little George St. near Smith and Julius. With other artists and friends met here at lunchtimes for discussion, argument etc.
Young first to buy a painting by Wakelin.

Four paintings exhibited in R.A.S. including The Yellow House and Boatsheds. A still life shown in Society of Artists exhibition.
Opposition now not as severe. Some attempt at understanding of his work by the more broadminded. During this year, closer contact with de Maistre. Friendship consolidated by mutual interest in modern art and experimentation. Ideas on importance of colour in painting introduced by de Maistre and enthusiastically adopted by Wakelin. Later read W.H. Wright's chapter on "Synchromism" in his Modern Painting (1915), Arthur Jerome Eddy's chapter, "Colour-Music" in his Cubists and Post Impressionists and A.W. Rimington's Colour Music, the Art of Mobile Colour.

Ideas gained from their reading of these books, their interest in colour and their knowledge... of music (especially de Maistre) resulted in production of paintings with 'Colour-Music' or 'Synchromist' titles and eventually an exhibition, "Colour in Art", at Gayfield Shaw's Art Salon, Elizabeth St., Sydney. Six paintings by Wakelin, five by de Maistre, plus pictures of interiors by de Maistre decorated according to colour-music scales. Joint lecture given on opening night explaining their ideas and their theory. Well attended. Mixed reception by press and public. First completely non-figurative works painted by both artists at this time.

Both Wakelin and de Maistre influenced by Max Meldrum's tonal naturalism although this meant almost a complete reversal of former interests. Both read Meldrum's book, Max Meldrum: His Art and Views. Were influenced by its authority and the current popularity of Meldrum's style of painting. Three pictures exhibited at Society of Artists annual exhibition.

First one-man exhibition at Anthony Hordern's Gallery (1 February), forty-five paintings shown, but very few sold. Later in February sailed for London with wife and son. There worked again as a commercial artist, visited museums and galleries and paid three short visits to Paris (one with John Young). Saw some modern exhibitions (Gauguin, Van Gogh), but not as many as hoped for. Met critic, P.G. Konody, who took him to the Burlington Fine Arts Club Summer Exhibition where he saw his first Cezannes.
Lived at 59 St. Paul's Ave., Willesden Green.
1923 Lived briefly at St. John's Wood, Tulse Hill, Golder's Green, then Chelsea.
Evolved own particular solution to problem of painting English light and colour although impact of Post-Impressionism not yet in strong evidence.
1925 Exhibition of works in April inaugurated the Macquarie Galleries, founded by John Young and Basil Burdett (Bligh St., Sydney). Catalogue introduction by Margaret Preston, forty-three paintings from London and Paris. First direct evidence in paintings of influence of Cezanne.
1926 Moved to Johnstone St., Chatswood where daughter Judith was born, 2 June.
In November showed six paintings at the Grosvenor Galleries with "A Group of Modern Painters", later called "A Group of Contemporary Painters" and finally "The Contemporary Group". Organized chiefly through efforts of George Lambert and Thea Proctor, both sympathetic with the younger artists who shared Wakelin's views.
Gave Saturday painting classes at Chatswood for about year, but did not teach much again until the 1950's.
1927 Moved to Edward St., North Sydney.
Painted The Red House - one of his most successful works to date. Gradual relaxing of previous criticism and opposition.

1928 August - Exhibition at Macquarie Galleries opened by Mrs A. T. Anderson, an active patron of modern art.

In December edition of Art in Australia, publication of Wakelin's first important article on the modern movement. Gives some insight into his own work and the depth of his understanding of the movement at this time.

1929 A.J.L. McDonnell joined Basil Burdett and John Young at Macquarie Galleries. Later bought Wakelin's work extensively for his private collection.

Art in Australia published numerous articles sympathizing with Sydney's 'moderns' and giving them long overdue publicity. Increasing public appreciation and understanding.

1930 During the depression years found few buyers. Remained with O'Brien's, but often worked only one week in three.

Retrospective exhibition at Ball Green, Turramurra, the home of Mrs Ethel Anderson, 73 paintings (1913-30).

1931 At end of year or early 1932 moved from Edward St., North Sydney, briefly to the "White House", Carr St., Waverton which had been painted from "Cezanne" in 1918.

1933 Showed pictures at Dorrit Black's Modern Art Centre, Margaret St., Sydney.

Moved to two different houses in East Crescent St., McMahon's Point, then to King St., Waverton until 1939.

1934 July - exhibition at Macquarie Galleries organized by Mrs Ethel Anderson and Mrs Rodney Dangar. First financially successful show. Intelligent and well-considered article on Wakelin by influential critic Kenneth Wilkinson appeared in August edition of Art in Australia accompanied by six reproductions. Elected member of Society of Artists.

1935 First truly profitable exhibition at Macquarie Galleries (June, 33 paintings). First painting to be purchased by a public gallery (Art Gallery of N.S.W.). Mellowing of style becomes noticeable this year. Possible connection between popularity, official recognition and this change to a more personal, less radical style of painting. At end of year part of A.J.L. McDonnell's collection, containing paintings by Wakelin, deposited on loan with Sydney University Union. With additions remained in view here until the owner's death in 1964.

1936 August 4, Macquarie Galleries, 40 paintings.

1937 August 18, Macquarie Galleries, 34 recent paintings and 19 lent from earlier periods.

1938 Represented in "150 Years of Australian Art", Art Gallery of N.S.W. First inclusion in a museum exhibition. Three paintings - Diana, Golder's Green and Hendon Landscape. A member of the short-lived Australian Academy of Art. Exhibited two works in the Academy's inaugural (and only) exhibition.
1939 19 July - Exhibition at Macquarie Galleries - 34 paintings, catalogue introduction by Basil Burdett (then with the Melbourne Herald). Moved to flat at corner of Challis Ave. and Victoria St., Pott's Point.

1940 29 July - exhibition at Macquarie Galleries - 33 paintings, catalogue introduction by John Young who had given up the gallery the previous year.

1942 Retrospective Exhibition at Art Gallery of N.S.W., 4 May, 66 paintings (1916-42) selected by the artist. 21 October - exhibition at Macquarie Galleries - 18 paintings only. Art Gallery of N.S.W. purchased Judith in Blue. Worked in P.M.G. Drawing Office till 1950. Moved to flat in Neutral Bay.

1944 11 October - Exhibition at Macquarie Galleries - 23 paintings including Canberra landscapes (e.g. Black Mountain, Canberra).

1946 13 March - Macquarie Galleries - 23 paintings.
1947  Awarded Society of Artists medal jointly with George Bell. In November exhibited for first time with Contemporary Art Society of which he was elected co vice-president with Desiderius Orban for one year only. Visited New Zealand for a few weeks - some paintings.

1948  5 May - exhibited eight New Zealand landscapes with the Northwood Group, Macquarie Galleries. Other exhibitors included Lloyd Rees, George Lawrence, Marie and John Santry, all living in or around the suburb of Northwood. All had been painting together for some years - favourite painting area was North Ryde.

1949  27 April - Macquarie Galleries - 24 paintings.

1950  25 October - Macquarie Galleries - 24 paintings including Melbourne landscapes (e.g. Morning on the Yarra).

      In November went to Melbourne for a year.
      Lived in Albert St., East Melbourne.

1952  7 May - Macquarie Galleries - 22 paintings.

      Instructor in art at Faculty of Architecture, Sydney University until 1968.

      Begins to give private painting lessons.
1953 Tutor for Dept. of Adult Education, Sydney University and lecturer for W.E.A. for about four years.

Moved from Neutral Bay to Kent Rd., Rose Bay.

Exhibition, Macquarie Galleries, Canberra, 19 August - 22 paintings.

SELECTED CATALOGUE RAISONNÉ

Wakelin's artistic output during his lifetime was so prolific it would be impossible to attempt to catalogue all his works - and because it was prolific the standard of these works varies greatly. Those paintings selected here thus represent only a cross-section of the artist's entire oeuvre, dating from 1907 (the earliest surviving painting) to 1968 - three years before his death. While the scarcity of Wakelin's remaining New Zealand (pre 1913) works demands some conjecture as to the direction (or directions) of his early style those paintings of later years (especially after 1940) are so many that selection, in this case, became a necessity. However, I think those chosen are representative and do help to create an adequate picture of the development of Wakelin's style during his long painting career.

Dating of the pictures has given little cause for query - most were either signed and dated by Wakelin on completion or added later. Unless otherwise stated all exhibitions and collections are in Sydney and all paintings in oils (Wakelin painted relatively few watercolours and attached only marginal importance to the pencil sketch). Measurements are in centimetres - height by width.
1. Untitled (New Zealand landscape) 1907 (plate 2)

   hardboard (recently remounted), 41 x 55.2 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 1907' (1.1.) in black pen (added later)

   Collection: Dr P. F. Burke, Melbourne.

   The earliest surviving oil painting by Wakelin I have found. Painted while the artist was still a student at Wellington Technical College, but already shows competence in rendering atmospheric and weather effects in a 'sketchy' technique that differed widely from the contemporary preoccupation with solid, realistic form and clear delineation. Quite probably completed before the motif which may indicate the influence of James McLaughlin Nairn, a former teacher at the College (1891-1904) who stressed the importance of 'plein-air' painting. Location of the subject is not known.

2. Landscape 1908 (plate 3) textured paper on pulpboard, 17.2 x 21.7 cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1908' (1.1.) in blue biro (signed later).

   Collection: National Gallery, Canberra.

   Acquisition: from Toorak Gallery, Melbourne. Not exhibited.

   High-keyed and lighter colours, broad brush technique departs radically from the 1907 landscape and suggests an awareness of Impressionist fundamentals. On the reverse side of the painting '1911' has been written in pencil and then '08' over it in biro. Again, location of the subject is not known.

3. Still Life 1910

canvas, 21 x 29.1 cm,
Collection: National Gallery, Canberra
(Unfortunately this work was not available for viewing or for collecting further catalogue details.)

4. Untitled (sketch of man in action) 1910

(plate 4)
inscribed top right hand corner - '16th, 20th, 23rd June, 1910, 6 hours'.
Collection: Beth Mayne Studio Shop for Wakelin Estate. Completed in the life classes of Wellington Technical College. Could have been a sketch for figure in a large work depicting men in action called 8 A.M. (exhibited Annual Exhibition of N.Z. Academy of Fine Arts, 1911, and reviewed in two separate Wellington newspapers).

5. Self Portrait c. 1910-12 canvas on board, 22.2 cm (diameter), unsigned and undated (Wakelin's daughter believes it to have been painted before the artist left New Zealand at the end of 1912).

Collection: Mrs Judith Murray.
Acquisition: from the artist.
6. Tom Smith 1911

pencil on paper, 32 x 23.8 cm,
initialled lower left; lower right corner -
'Tom Smith, 1911, Wellington'.
Collection: Mr Malcolm Bell.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio Shop, 1974.
Technique here is more individualistic than that in the earlier drawing. Treatment of forms is blocky, planar and hands, face etc. have been deliberately elongated. Tom Smith was probably not a model, but a friend of Wakelin's.

7. Untitled 1912 (plate 5)

pencil on paper, 35.3 x 25 cm,
initialled 'R.W.' (l.l.) and '1912' (l.r.) in pencil.
Collection: Beth Mayne Studio Shop for Wakelin Estate.
Probably completed in the College life classes. Technique is more confident than in the 1910 drawing although, whether intentionally or not, pose is not anatomically 'accurate'.

8. The Shady Tree 1912

canvas, 51.5 x 75.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1912' (l.l.)
present owner untraceable Acquisition: from Joel's Auction Sales, Melbourne, lot 589.
9. Untitled (profile study), 1913 (plate 6)

pencil on paper, 37.3 x 28cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin' and '5/9/13, 2 nights' (l.l.)
Collection: Beth Mayne Studio Shop for Wakelin Estate.
Probably completed at the life classes of the Royal Art Society held on week nights under Dattilo Rubbo. Subject not known.

10. The Fruit Seller of Farm Cove 1915 (plate 10)

canvas, 90.8 x 113.5 cm,
signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1915' (l.r.) - printed rather than in the usual longhand style.
Collection: National Gallery, Canberra.
(Wakelin) "Painted in the bedroom of a boarding house at 'Verona', Waruda St, Milson's Point. . . . Uneven light meant taking canvas into open air to check tonality. Phillips Fox show at R.A.S. rooms Oct. 1913 was much in mind at this time regarding colour. This picture was purely Impressionism: light expressed through colour. Painted indoors from 12" x 10" sketch made on the spot." - Wakelin to Daniel Thomas, (Art Gallery of N.S.W.) 7.12.61.

11. Portrait of Ginger West c. 1915 (illus. i) canvas mounted on hardboard, 45.7 x 35.5 cm, unsigned and undated, Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased by the Gallery Trustees, 29.4.67, from the Macquarie Galleries.
Exhibited: 1967 - "Roland Wakelin Retrospective", Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 3.
Reproduced: Retrospective Exhibition Catalogue, plate 1.
(Wakelin) "Ginger West was a model who posed mostly for the nude. This painting was made in Rubbo's Saturday afternoon R.A.S. classes, probably 2 Saturdays." - Wakelin to Daniel Thomas (Art Gallery of N.S.W.), 6.12.67.
Colours here are subtle, but still distinctly juxtaposed in emulation of Impressionist methods - yet without their 'disintegration' of form.
12. Balmoral 1915

paper, 40.5 x 30.5 cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin' (l.l.) - no date Collection: Mrs John Summons, Melbourne.
Acquisition: 1967.
Exhibited: 1942 - "Roland Wakelin Loan Exhibition", Art Gallery of N.S.W., May-June, as "Balmoral, 1916" ('in possession of the artist'), cat. no.
31; 1967 (April) - Darlinghurst Galleries,
cat. no. 39 ($150).
Verso: "Painted near Balmoral Beach on December, 1915. Roland junior is taking his first step."
- signed 'Roland Wakelin, 25.3.67'.
Application of paint here is heavy, impasto-like.
Colours are blended rather than distinctly juxta-posed, and primarily tonal. The emphasis given to texture and the substantiality of form coupled with a more expressive brush technique perhaps reflects already the beginnings of a movement away from Impressionist principles.

13. The Outcrop 1915
(plate 11)

cardboard, 29.1 x 22.8 cm,
signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1915' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr Lloyd Rees.
Acquisition: "From the estate of James Adams, an artist at Smith and Julius and given to me by his daughter, Mrs Emery of Nowra."
(Lloyd Rees, 20.12.74)
Exhibited: 1972 (March-April) - "Roland Wakelin Memorial Exhibition", Macquarie Galleries, cat.
no. 1 ("kindly lent").
Lively brush technique, rugged application of paint suggest this small sketch-like work was completed before the motif. Colours are pure and roughly juxtaposed and the main concern appears to have been that of capturing the strong light effects of the scene – primarily through colour and brushwork.

14. Down the Hills to Berry's Bay 1916 (plate 13)

Canvas (glued on masonite c. 1960), 68 x 121.8 cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1916' (l.r.)

Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.

Acquisition: Purchased by the Gallery Trustees from the artist (150 gns) 24.11.61.

Painting, Sydney, 1971, p. 39 (colour); Art Gallery of N.S.W. Picturebook, 1972, p. 97 (colour);
(Wakelin) "Flowery titles were the fashion . . . . Painted partly on the spot but mostly indoors . . . 'Cezanne', Carr St, Bay Road (now Waverton) . . . . Rubbo had shown me an article on Cezanne in the Forum by Willard Huntington Wright. This fascinated me though I couldn't rightly get the hang of it. However, I think I now became vaguely aware of pictorial structure which, if it had existed in my work previously, well it was not my fault. Such things were not taught in art schools those days. I was also thinking a lot about colour gradations in terms of the spectrum. The original size was 4' x 3'4" but half way through I decided to cut it down in height. I must have painted over the old part before it was properly dry. The figure in the foreground is Geoff Townshend from a pencil sketch made at Pearl Bay three years before." — Wakelin to Art Gallery of N.S.W., 7.12.61.
Careful structuring, solid forms of this picture indicate some awareness of Cezanne — the "pictorial structure" Wakelin refers to above. To the left are the boatsheds Wakelin was to make the subject of another large-scale work in 1918 and on the crest of the hill the "Red House" also to become the subject for a later picture (1927). Berry's Bay a favourite painting spot for the artist.
15. Seated Figure 1916 (illus. ii)

prepared board, 46 x 30.8 cm,
signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1916' (l.r.)
Collection: Sargeant Art Gallery, Wanganui, New Zealand.
Acquisition: Presented by Miss Francis D. Ellis.
More vigorous and expressive brush technique, breaking up of form and outline points to a greater awareness of Post-Impressionist concerns.

16. Study for Boat Sheds 1917 (plate 16)

canvas on board, 15.4 x 23 cm, signed 'R.W. 17' (l.l.)
Collection: National Gallery, Canberra.
Acquisition: from Leveson Street Gallery, Melbourne, 1969.
verso: (in biro) "Study for Boatsheds in Newcastle Gallery" and (in pencil) "1917".

17. Sunset at Berrima 1917 (plate 17)

canvas on board, 19 x 28.5 cm,
signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1917' (l.l.)
Collection: Mr Lloyd Rees.
Acquisition: from the artist c. 1918.
Exhibited: 1922, (Feb.) - Anthony Hordern's Fine Arts Gallery as "Sunset", cat. no. 43 ("lent by Mr Lloyd Rees").
A small, very simply stated picture perhaps completed before the motif. May be a study for a larger work. Complete departure from Impressionist-inspired brush technique of preceding works. Painted while Wakelin was on holidays. Berrima is situated south-west of Sydney.

18. The Yellow House 1918 (plate 20)
prepared board, 22.8 x 30.4 cm,
signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1918' (l.l.)
Collection: Mr Lloyd Rees.
Acquisition: gift of the artist.
Possibly painted early in 1918 - it lacks the stronger simplification of later 1918 works (The White House, Boat Sheds) perhaps having more in common with the 1917 Sunset at Berrima in both paint application and choice of colours.

19. The White House 1918 (plate 18)
pulpboard, 25.1 x 29.8 cm,
Collection: Newcastle City Art Gallery.
Acquisition: Purchased 1966 from exhibition of A.J.L. McDonnell Collection, Macquarie Galleries, August-September.
Exhibited: 1922 - Anthony Horder's Fine Arts Gallery (one man exhibition), cat. no. 6; 1926 - "A Group of Modern Painters", Grosvenor Galleries, cat. no. 21; 1937 (August) - Macquarie Galleries, as "The White House, Waverton", cat. no. 35 ("kindly lent"); 1957 (July) - Macquarie Galleries (exhibition of recent works and some paintings from the McDonnell collection), cat. no. 34; 1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House, no catalogue; 1967 - "Roland Wakelin Retrospective", Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 9.

Painted from "Cezanne" - the name Wakelin had given to his house at Bay Road (now Waverton) when he moved into it in 1916. Heavy simplification and 'clumsy' treatment of form, flattening of perspective points to growing awareness of and preoccupation with more recent European trends - perhaps in this case the Post-Impressionism of Van Gogh or the 'naive' art of the Fauve painters.

20. Girl in a Purple Dress 1918 (illus. iii)
pulpboard, 46.6 x 30.8 cm, signed 'R. Wakelin 1918' (ll. l.)
Collection: National Gallery of Victoria.
Acquisition: Presented by the National Gallery Society of Victoria, 1967.
Exhibited: (possibly) 1922 - Anthony Hordern's Gallery, cat. no. 35 as "The Purple Lady"; 1967 (April) - Darlinghurst Galleries (Arts Council) supplementary to Retrospective at Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 6.
21. Boat Sheds 1918 (plate 19) canvas mounted on hardboard, 50.5 x 75.8 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin' (l.l.)
Collection: Newcastle City Art Gallery.
Acquisition: Presented by the Art Gallery and Conservatorium Committee, 1961.
Exhibited: 1918 - R.A.S. Annual Exhibition, cat. no. 97; 1960 - "Pioneer Contemporaries", Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 26; 1967 - "Roland Wakelin Retrospective", Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat no. 7; 1970 (April-June) - "Landfall" (The Captain Cook Bi-Centenary Exhibition of Australian Art), National Gallery of Victoria, no catalogue no.
(Wakelin) "By this time I was more fully aware of Cezanne's principles which I think is obvious from the picture itself . . . ."

- To Daniel Thomas (A.G.N.S.W., 7.12.61)
Influence of Cezanne is evident here in the use of gradations of colour to suggest depth and degrees of light and shade. Knowledge of this aspect of the French artist's work may have been gained through Wakelin's reading of W.H.Wright's article on Cezanne in Forum.

wood panel on cardboard, 17.1 x 11.2 cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1918' (l.l.)
Collection: Mrs W.J. Mendel.
Acquisition: from the artist.
May have been among the first exercises with 'colour-music' in mind. It certainly has more in common with the abstract colour and radical schematization of form in the 1919 paintings than with other 1918 works.

23. Untitled 1918
wood panel, 12.7 x 17.7,
Collection: Mary Turner.
Related to the preceding 'untitled' 1918 painting. Again suggests an early experiment with 'colour-music' in mind - although it is not known to what extent the colour-music theory had been worked out at this stage. Lacks the confident handling, the formal success and bright colour of the 1919 paintings.

24. Hillside Houses, Berry's Bay 1919 (plate 23)
hardboard, 19.5 x 22.5 cm,
unsigned and undated (dating verified by Wakelin to owner).
Collection: Mr Douglas Dundas.
Acquisition: from Lawson's Auction sales, c. 1955.
Exhibited: 1942 - "Roland Wakelin Loan Exhibition", Art Gallery of N.S.W. as "Hillside, Berry's Bay", cat. no. 40 (1916-20 section); 1960 - "Pioneer Contemporaries", Macquarie Galleries as "Colour-Music II", cat. no. 27 ("kindly lent by Mrs Douglas Dundas"); 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 13. A more 'sombre' colour-music phase work possibly painted early in 1919 before the artist had gained confidence in handling brighter colour.

25. Barn near Tuggerah 1919 (plate 24)

pulpboard, 16.5 x 21.5 cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1919' (1.1.)
Collection: Mr Daniel Thomas.
Acquisition: from the artist c. 1960.
Exhibited: 1937 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 36 as "Landscape, Tuggerah" ("kindly lent"); 1942 - Loan Exhibition, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 64 as "Tuggerah" (lent by John Young); 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 11.
Use of varying shades of green here is most distinctive and points to the application of the 'colour-music' theory, perhaps to the use of the colour keyboards and discs that Wakelin and de Maistre had devised. Other 1919 paintings employed a greater range of colours although these were still supposedly linked harmoniously according to the colour scales.

26. The Causeway, Tuggerah 1919 (plate 26) canvas-textured paper on pulpboard, 14 x 17.4 cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1919' (1.1.) in pen and ink.
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: Purchased by the Gallery Trustees 29.4.67 from the Macquarie Galleries ($125).
Exhibited: 1967 - Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Retrospective, cat. no. 12.
(Wakelin) "... painted from the verandah of Smith's boarding house at Tuggerah Lake ... . This would be the Xmas holiday 1919. I certainly had 'colour music' in mind though most of the pictures in Gayfield Shaw's exhibition were more clear cut in colour boundaries - like Mervyn Horton's picture [plate 27]. Some were painted in the studio, some on the spot."
- to Daniel Thomas (A.G.N.S.W.), 6.12.67.

27. Berry's Bay 1919 (plate 25)
pulpboard, 17.1 x 22.8 cm,
signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1919' (l.l.)
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased by the Director, Hal Missingham (23.8.57) from a sale held at James R. Lawson Pty. Ltd. auction rooms.
Reproduced: 1967 Retrospective Catalogue cover (colour); Colsey, D., 100 Years of Australian

28. On Ball's Head 1919

Collection: Mr Joseph Brown, Melbourne.

29. Synchromy in Orange-Red Major 1919 (plate 27)

pulpboard, 30.5 x 40.5 cm (approx.), signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1919' (1.1.)

Collection: Mr Mervyn Horton.

Exhibited: 1919, (August) - "Colour in Art" exhibition, Gayfield Shaw's Art Salon, cat. no. 4; 1957 (July) - McDonnell Collection, Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 25 as "Landscape with House"; 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 15; 1967 (August) - Sancta Sophia College, Sydney Univ. (mixed exhib.), as "Synchromy in Orange Major", cat. no. 87.

Depicts a stone building on the shores of Berry's Bay. The only work surviving from 1919 to have been shown in the "Colour in Art" exhibition. Painted according to the colour combinations of the de Maistre/Wakelin colour scales.

30. Abstract 1919

watercolour on paper, 33.5 x 18.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin' (l.l.) in pencil (no date) Collection: Mr Cedric Flower.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1974.
Appears to be the only surviving example of Wakelin's experiments with purely abstract form and colour. According to Wakelin, both he and de Maistre produced 'colour-music' abstracts towards the end of 1919. As he seems to have never departed again into the realms of abstraction I think we may assume this work was one of the 'abstracts' of that year.

31. Self Portrait 1920 (illus. vii)
pulpboard, 26.5 x 25.5 cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1920' (l.l.) (signature printed).
Collection: Mr Andrew Ivangi, Melbourne.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1968.
Exhibited: 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 18; 1967 - Sancta Sophia College, Sydney University, cat. no. 88;
An exercise in the application of Max Meldrum's theory of tonal painting. Adheres very strictly to Meldrum's formula for the painter.

32. Landscape 1920

board mounted on hardboard, 30.5 x 36.8 cm, signed 'R. Wakelin 1920' (l.l.)
Collection: Joseph Brown, Melbourne.
Although produced during the 'Meldrum' phase this particular work has a warmth and vibrancy of colour lacking in other contemporary paintings. Its suggestive, atmospheric quality and the artist's inattention to all but the essentials of forms reveals a more original, more individual Wakelin.

33. Still Life with Fruit c. 1920 (plate 32) paper on board, 24.1 x 31.4 cm, signed 'R. Wakelin 1920' (or 21) (l.l.)

Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: gift of the artist.

Collection: Miss Joan Allen, Canberra.
Acquisition: from the present owner's father, Dr L. H. Allen who knew Wakelin and acquired it prior to 1940.
Verso: John Young framing sticker.
Tonality is dark and restricted in keeping with many works of this period, although in this case it is appropriate to the stormy quality of the landscape depicted. Particular attention has been focused on painting the cloud effects of the storm.

35. Still life with Carnations 1921 (plate 33)
cardboard, 33 x 26.6 cm,
signed 'R.S.Wakelin 1921' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr and Mrs A. J. Hawkesford.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1974.
One of many still lifes produced at this time. Because Meldrum emphasized the importance of formulating a range of tones based on the variations of light and dark in the subject those that were painted under artificial light were able to adhere most closely and achieve more easily such a formula of tone - hence the predominance of still life and portrait subjects among Wakelin's work of the early 1920's and that of other artists who were influenced by Meldrum.

36. The Brass Pot 1921 (plate 34)
pulpboard, 25.1 x 26 cm,
unsigned
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased by the Gallery Trustees from the Macquarie Galleries, 29.4.67.
Exhibited: 1922 - "Oil Paintings by Roland Wakelin", Anthony Hordern's Gallery, cat. no. 18 (5 gns); 1937 (August) - "Recent Paintings by Roland Wakelin" (in company with some of the artist's earlier work), Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 38 ("kindly lent"); 1966 - McDonnell Collection, Macquarie Galleries (no catalogue); 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 20.

(Wakelin) "... this was painted at 'Cezanne', Carr St, Bay Road. I was no longer attending R.A.S. classes. The picture was originally bought by John Young. I was at this time, as must be obvious, deep in the toils of Meldrum."

- to Daniel Thomas (A.G.N.S.W., 6.12.67)

37. Landscape with Farmhouse 1921

pulpboard, 28.5 x 32.8 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1921' (1.1.)

Acquisition: 1966, Elder Bequest.

Farmhouse in foreground. Emphasis given to large expanse of sky. Paint applied in 'patches' with little attention to detail or outline. I have not seen the original work and therefore am not able to comment on its colour - but in all other respects it complies with the Meldrum-phase preoccupations.
38. Tree Study 1921

pulpboard, 56 x 44 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 21' (1.1.)
Collection: Joseph Brown Galleries, Melbourne.
Acquisition: from the artist's studio.
Although tonality is dull, earthy (predominantly greens and browns) emphasis has been placed on design, on the arrangement of forms, treatment of planes rather than the 'feeling' of nature or the analysis of tone. Paint is applied in broad, solid areas, sharply defined - not in a series of 'patches' as in other contemporary works. Colour is strong, solid, with little attention to detail, light or atmospheric effects.

39. The Conservatorium, Sydney 1922 (plate 30)

paper on thin board mounted on cardboard, 24.3 x 30 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 22' (1.1.) in pen and ink.
Collection: National Gallery, Canberra.
Acquisition: from Leveson Street Gallery, Melbourne, 1971.
Reproduced: A. in A., 1,1, (Feb., 1922).

40. Portrait of John Young c. 1922 (plate 31)

canvas on board, 38 x 27.7 cm,
unsigned and undated,
Collection: Mrs Clarice Thomas.
Acquisition: Formerly owned by Mrs Thomas's father, John Young, and then by her mother, Mrs E. C. Young after 1945.

Exhibited: 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 24.

Wakelin had become friends with John Young in 1917 and the friendship remained until the latter's death in 1945. Young, the first to buy a painting by Wakelin, owned a framing studio in Little George St., Sydney which became a meeting place for many young artists interested in 'modernism'. With Basil Burdett he was co-founder of the Macquarie Galleries in 1925 which devoted its inaugural exhibition to a showing of Wakelin's work. Although the portrait is undated its restricted tonality and disregard for line or detail, so characteristic of many of the Meldrum-phase paintings, suggests a date of about 1922. It may have been painted in London: Wakelin arrived there in Easter, 1922 and Young three months later.

41. St. Paul's, London 1922 (plate 35)

Collection: Mrs W. J. Mendel.

Acquisition: from the artist.

The often misty light of England was new to Wakelin and did cause him some trouble in painting at first. His response to the grey mistiness of this scene has been with a kind of muted aestheticism quite opposed to the Post-Impressionism he so admired. However, later English paintings resolved the problem of painting the local colour and light in a more original and substantial treatment of form.

42. Untitled (English landscape) 1922 (plate 36) textured paper on cardboard backing, 15.5 x 18.4 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 22' (l.r.)
Collection: Mrs Treania Bennett.
Acquisition: from the artist, late 1960's.
Allied to the preceding work in its soft, muted form and colour.

43. Willesden Green 1922
pulpboard, 17.5 x 15.3 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1922' (l.l.)
Collection: Miss Rachel Roxburgh.
Exhibited: 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 21.
Contrasts strongly with other works of 1922. No attempt at rendering atmospheric effects - emphasis on tangibility rather than immateriality of form. Colours are strong, but restricted (browns, greys) and forms heavily simplified.

44. Self Portrait 1923 (plate 1, vol. I)
pulpboard, 38.1 x 31.3 cm,
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: Purchased by the Gallery Trustees 26.7.57 from the Macquarie Galleries (McDonnell Collection).

Exhibited: 1925 (April) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 17; 1942 (May-June) - "Roland Wakelin Loan Exhibition", Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 30; 1957 (July) - McDonnell Collection, Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 35; 1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House, no catalogue; 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 23.

Movement away from the strictly tonal works of 1920-22 evident here in the reintroduction of colour, particularly in the face.

45. West Wickham 1923

pulpboard, 27.6 x 38.1 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 1923' (l.l.)

Acquisition: 1957 from Macquarie Galleries (d'Auvergne Boxall Bequest).

Like most of the 1923 English paintings form is here simplified to essentials, paint vigorously applied and colours restricted. As Cezanne had done Wakelin eliminates unnecessary detail to capture the 'essence' of form.

46. St. John's Wood 1923 (illus. viii) canvas mounted on board, 30.4 x 38.1 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 1923' (1.1.)
Collection: Art Gallery of South Australia.
Acquisition: 1957 from Macquarie Galleries (d'Auvergne Boxall Bequest).
Exhibited: 1925 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 39; 1937 - Macquarie Galleries (August), exhibition of recent and earlier work, as "Mews, St. John's Wood", cat. no. 42 ("kindly lent"); 1942 - "Roland Wakelin Loan Exhibition", Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 6 (lent by John Young); 1957 (July) - Macquarie Galleries, exhibition of recent and earlier work from McDonnell Collection, cat. no. 27; 1962 - "Australian Painting - Colonial, Impressionist, Contemporary", Commonwealth Govt. exhibition, circulated Adelaide and London, Ottawa, Vancouver (1963), cat. no. 207; 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 22.
Reproduced: National Gallery of South Australia Bulletin, 19,2 (Adelaide, Oct., 1952);
Australian Painting: Colonial, Impressionist, Contemporary (Commonwealth Govt. Exhib. Catalogue), p. 82.

While in England Wakelin lived for a time at St. John's Wood, an outer London suburb.
Golder's Green, Brent River  c. 1923-4 (plate 37)
cedar panel,  14.6 x 17.7 cm,
unsigned and undated.
Collection:  Mrs Judith Murray.
Acquisition:  from the artist.
Exhibited:  1937 - Macquarie Galleries, as "The Brent near Hendon", cat. no. 41 (1922-4 section, lent by Mrs Wakelin).
According to Wakelin this was his first painting to successfully capture the English colour and light. It is also his most radical statement to date. As in the preceding painting Cezannesque concepts are now evident although neither work bears any real stylistic comparison with Cezanne: Wakelin had the opportunity of directly viewing modern art in Europe, but its immediate impact on his own style was neither extensive nor completely revolutionary.

Brockwell Park, Tulse Hill  1924

cedar panel,  14.6 x 17.7 cm,
Collection:  Mrs Judith Murray.
Acquisition:  from the artist.
With another work of the same title and the preceding Golder's Green . . . is one in a set of three identically sized paintings completed in England and in the collection of Wakelin's daughter.
49. Lanercost Road, Tulse Hill 1924 (plate 39)

linen on cardboard, 20 x 25 cm,

Collection: Mrs W. J. Mendel.
Acquisition: from the artist.
Exhibited: possibly 1925 - Macquarie Galleries, as "Suburban Street, London", cat. no. 43 ("kindly lent").

Painted from the house where John Young lived with his family while in London. Another work bearing the same title and date is owned by the present owner's uncle.

50. Battersea Bridge c. 1924 (plate 38)

canvas on board, 31 x 41 cm, signed l.l. but is virtually illegible - has been partially painted over.

Collection: Miss Joan Allen, Canberra.
Acquisition: from her father, Dr L. H. Allen, a friend of Wakelin.
Exhibited: 1925 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 15; 1937 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 43 (lent by Dr Allen); 1942 - "Roland Wakelin Loan Exhibition", Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 65; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 27.

51. In The Luxembourg Gardens No. 1 1924 (plate 40)

wood panel, 45.7 x 38 cm,

Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.

Acquisition: Purchased by the Trustees from Macquarie Galleries 29.4.62 (formerly in McDonnell Collection).

Exhibited: 1925 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 18; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 28.

Reproduced: 1967 Retrospective Catalogue (Wakelin) "Painted on the spot in de Mestre's [sic] company." - to A.G.N.S.W., 6.12.67. De Maistre was at this time in Europe on a travelling Scholarship awarded him by the Society of Artists in 1923.

52. Richmond Park (England) c. 1924

canvas on board, 30.6 x 40 cm, signed 'R.S.Wakelin' (l.r.) no date

Collection: Mr Alan Middleton.

Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio Shop, 1974.

Exhibited: 1925 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 33 (as "In a London Park, Winter").

53. Portrait of Roland Wakelin Jr. c.1924 (plate 41)

canvas on board, 34.5 x 26 cm,
unsigned and undated.

Collection: Dr P. F. Burke, Melbourne.

Acquisition: From Leveson Street Gallery, Melbourne.
Verso: "This certifies this is a painting by Roland Wakelin painted 1924" - signed E. Wakelin (the artist's wife), witnessed by Douglas Watson, 12 April, 1972.
Although undated the limited, darker colours, the 'patchy' paint application of this work does perhaps point (as Wakelin's wife suggests) to a dating of about 1924, but it may also have been painted even earlier than this during the tonalism of the Meldrum Phase (1920-22). As Wakelin was dead in 1972 Mrs Wakelin may have arrived at a date of 1924 by guessing the age of her son rather than basing it on stylistic grounds. If painted in 1924 Roland jr. would have been ten years old in this picture.

54. At Chatswood 1924 (plate 42)

plywood, 33.3 x 24.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1924' (1.1.)
Collection: Mr Frank Coe.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio Shop, 1972.
Exhibited: possibly 1926 - "A Group of Modern Painters", Grosvenor Galleries, cat. no. 20 (as "Holland Street, Chatswood").
Wakelin returned to Sydney in October, 1924. This and other works produced immediately following his return reflect more definitely than in England the influence of Cezanne - particularly in brush technique and the role it plays in constructing form, creating depth, movement etc. This is not a terribly successful painting, but it does indicate the beginnings of a more lively, dynamic approach that was to determine the nature of many future works.

55. At Dee Why c. 1924 (plate 43)

hardboard, 24.7 x 29.1 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin' (l.r.)
Collection: Beth Mayne Studio Shop for Wakelin Estate.
An unfinished and undated work. It may have been a study for a larger painting.

56. Still Life with Table Knife 1925 (plate 45)

plywood, 41 x 51 cm,
signed 'Wakelin 1925' (l.l.)
Collection: Mr Christopher Davis
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1972.
Exhibited: 1972 - "Roland Wakelin Memorial Exhibition", Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 5.
Among Wakelin's first truly 'Cezannesque' still life paintings. Objects are tilted and normal perspective distorted in the manner of the French master, but without perhaps the dynamic movement he imparted to his still lifes.
Wakelin's return to Australia in late 1924 marked the beginning of his 'Cezanne' period - to continue to the mid 1930's.
57. Landscape 1925

paper on board, 31.6 x 40.6 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 25' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr M. Ives, Canberra.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, Canberra, 1971.
Brisk application of paint, earthy colours and analysis of landscape into a series of simplified planes in this work is allied to the 1926
The Skillion, Terrigal although without this picture's liveliness and formal success.

58. The Skillion, Terrigal c. 1926 (plate 46)
canvas on board, 54 x 64.1 cm,
unsigned and undated.
Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: gift of the artist.
Similar to a painting with the same title owned by Miss Enid Cambridge and dated 1926.

59. The Red House 1927 (illus. ix) canvas on Swedish wallboard, 76.2 x 101.6 cm,
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased by the Trustees, 18.12.53 from the artist.
Exhibited: 1928 (August) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 1; 1942 "Roland Wakelin Loan Exhibition",
A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 39; 1946 (April to May) - "Exhibition of Pictures by Contemporary Sydney Painters", Ballarat Art Gallery, cat. no. 45
The Red House was situated overlooking Berry's Bay and figured in a number of Wakelin's paintings of this particular area.

60. Bay Road Station 1927

plywood, 6a x 50.5 cm,
unsigned and undated.

Collection: Mr and Mrs B. L. Poidevin, Melbourne.
Acquisition: from Toorak Gallery, Melbourne, 1968.
Exhibited: 1928 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 6; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 32; 1968 - Toorak Galleries, cat. no. 3.

61. Boats at Berry's Bay 1927 (plate 47)

plywood, 40.4 x 61 cm,

Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: from the artist.
Exhibited: 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 33; 1970 - "Seventy Years of Australian Painting", Knox Grammar School, (4 Wakelins), cat. no. 18 (as "Berry's Bay").
63. Still Life with Yellow Table  c. 1927 (plate 48)
pulpboard, 54.1 x 41.9 cm, unsigned and undated.
Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1972.
Vitality, movement has here been achieved through a vigorous, expressive brush technique, informal composition and a 'Cezannesque' distortion of form.

64. Pool in the Bush  1928 cardboard, 41.9 x 55.3 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 1928' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: from the artist.
Brush technique, naturalistic scheme of colours here are typical of much of Wakelin's other contemporary works.

65. Landscape  1928
pulpboard, 45.4 x 60.5 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 1928' (l.r.)
Collection: Newcastle City Art Gallery

66. The Bridge Under Construction c. 1928-9 (plate 55) canvas on chipboard, 101.2 x 121.6 cm, unsigned and undated.
Collection: National Gallery of Victoria.
Acquisition: 1967 - from the Retrospective Exhibition (A.G.N.S.W.)
Construction of the Harbour Bridge provided the subject for a number of Wakelin's paintings during the late 1920's and early 30's. All, however, approached and treated the subject quite differently and from different viewpoints. The date is based on the Bridge's stage of construction.

67. Untitled (scene representing first stages of the Harbour Bridge) 1929.
pulpboard, 33.5 x 45 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 29' (l.l.)
Collection: Mr and Mrs R.P. Meagher.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio Shop.
Painting is still in an unfinished state but is interesting in a comparison with the contemporary Bridge Under Construction. Both works depicted the same subject at about the same time, yet the painterly interpretation of each could not be more different. This latter unfinished work is much more in line with Wakelin's contemporary style than the almost 'futuristic' quality of Bridge under Construction.

68. Tree Study c. 1930 (plate 56)
watercolour on paper, 22.8 x 29 cm,
Collection: Mr Tom Gilles, Queensland.
A spontaneous, less deliberate interpretation of nature unusual for Wakelin, but more in keeping with the watercolour medium. Cézanne's simply stated, but beautifully conceived watercolours may have been influential. Most of Wakelin's other watercolours were subject to the same control and careful formal organization as his oil paintings.

69. Pink Figure with Horse 1930 board on cardboard backing, 49.5 x 40.4 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1930' (l.l.)
Collection: National Gallery, Canberra.
Acquisition: Toorak Gallery, Melbourne.
A rather mysterious painting. Wakelin's treatment of the sitter (not known) is unusual for this period - quite opposed to the vigorous earthiness of his approach in most contemporary landscape-paintings. Colours are pastel, rather 'sweet' and, whether deliberately or not, the work has an almost surreal quality about it.

70. Galston Interior c. 1930-35 cardboard, 40 x 30.2 cm, unsigned and undated.

Collection: Mrs W. J. Mendel.
Acquisition: from the owner's father, John Young, who acquired it from the artist.
Not exhibited.
The cottage at Galston was owned by the Young family who lived in it during the depression years. Wakelin often visited the cottage with his own family. One suspects this work was painted purely in a moment of inspiration; simple and straightforward, it has little of the carefully considered formal organization characteristic of many other contemporary works.

71. On the Verandah c. 1931 (plate 51)
pulpboard, 34.8 x 24.7 cm, unsigned and undated.
Collection: Mr Lloyd Rees.
Acquisition: purchased from "exhibition of a few 'moderns' in George St. nth." (Lloyd Rees). This may have been Dorrit Black's Modern Art Centre situated in Margaret St, near George St, Sydney.
An intimate family scene unusual as subject for the early 1930's but to become increasingly popular as subject matter for Wakelin in later paintings. Depicts Mrs Wakelin and daughter Judith. Possibly painted at the Wakelins' Edward St., North Sydney house.

72. Portrait of Marjorie Fear c. 1931 (illus. xi)
pulpboard, 76.2 x 50.7 cm, unsigned and undated.
Collection: Mrs K. F. Plomley, Melbourne.
Acquisition: from Toorak Gallery, Melbourne, 1968.
Exhibited: possibly 1932 - Modern Art Centre, no catalogue; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 41; 1968 - Toorak Gallery, cat. 2.

73. Still Life with Check Tablecloth 1931
pulpboard, 45.6 x 37.5 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 31' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr Frank Coe.
Acquisition: from Mr Charles Henry who bought it from Beth Mayne, 1970.
Interesting for its strong colour rather than for any formal or stylistic reasons. One feels it was perhaps another product of Wakelin's incessant and spontaneous urge to paint no matter how 'ordinary' the subject. The hasty brush-strokes, simple composition and rather 'clumsy' application of colour certainly suggest this.

74. Ball's Head Landscape c. 1932 (plate 49)
canvas on board, 50 x 75 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin' (l.r.) no date.
Collection: Dr D. G. Hamilton.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio Shop, 1972.

75. Still Life with Apples and Dahlia 1932 (plate 50)
pulpboard, 50 x 75 cm,
Collection: Mr M. Ives, Canberra.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, Canberra, 1972.
Exhibited: 1942 - "Roland Wakelin Loan Exhibition", A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 24 as "Still Life"; 1968 - Toorak Galleries, Melbourne, cat. no. 8 as "Still Life with Blue Drape"; 1972 - Memorial exhibition, Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 8; 1972 - Macquarie Galleries, Canberra, cat. no. 1.
Verso: preliminary pencil drawing of painting's subject.
76. The Last Panel Before Joining Up 1932 (plate 54)
pulpboard on composition board, 47 x 60 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 32' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr Christopher Davis.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries (Memorial Exhib.), 1972.

77. View Towards Balmain 1932
watercolour on paper, 23.3 x 31.3 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 1932' (l.l.) in pencil.
Collection: Mr Steven Wilson.
Exhibited: 1969 (Sept.) - Moreton Galleries, Brisbane, no catalogue available.
Outstanding for its strict compositional organization, its almost geometric reduction of form and its emphasis on depth, solidity. Unable to afford boards and oils during the depression Wakelin turned to watercolour as an alternative and cheaper medium. Here he has used it constructively as he would have used oils.

78. House with a Steep Garden 1932 (illus. x) pencil on paper, 24.6 x 20.8 cm, (approx.) signed 'R.Wakelin 1932' (l.r.)
Collection: Western Australian Art Gallery.
Not exhibited.
79. North Sydney Landscape  1933
    watercolour sketch,  22.8 x 26.7 cm,
    Collection: Mrs Judith Murray.
    Acquisition: from the artist.
    Exhibited: possibly 1934 - Macquarie Galleries
    as "Landscape", cat. no. 35.

80. Blue's Point, Sydney Harbour  1933 oil (I have been unable to elicit some catalogue information on this large painting from its owners).
    Collection: Auckland City Art Gallery.
    Acquisition: Purchased 1966 by Air New Zealand for the Gallery.
    Similar painting technique and colour used here as in Ball's Head Landscape (cat. no. 74) although viewpoint is of course different and composition a little more complex.

81. Two Apples and a Jug  1933
    watercolour on paper,  15 x 21.5 cm,
    Collection: Mrs Clive Bennett.
    Acquisition: from the artist.
    Not exhibited.
82. Sailing Race 1933
pulpboard, 29.8 x 40 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 33' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: from the Macquarie Galleries, 1970.
Spontaneity, 'sketchiness' of this painting is rather unusual for Wakelin at this time. Here he applies colour (cool blues, greens, greys) in rough, hasty brushstrokes that reinforce the suggestion of windswept sea and sky etc.

83. The River at Windsor 1934 (plate 52)
pulpboard, 43.8 x 55.9 cm,
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased by the Gallery Trustees from Mr John Lowe 29.4.67 through the Macquarie Galleries.
Exhibited: 1934 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 16; 1943 (Oct.) - "The Centenary Art Exhibition", Commonwealth Bank Chamber, cat. no. 180 (as part of the McDonnell Collection); 1958 - Macquarie Galleries ("Show of Eights"), cat. no. 60; 1961 (Feb.-March) - McDonnell Collection, Sydney University, cat. no. 8; 1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House, Sydney, no catalogue; 1966 - McDonnell Collection, Macquarie Galleries, no catalogue; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 44.
Reproduced: Art in Australia 3,56 (1934) p. 25
(colour)
(Wakelin) "... commenced on the spot and finished in the studio. Close to the right hand side of the Bridge coming from the town. The foreground shapes ... were suggested by a jetty with bollard".

- to A.G.N.S.W., 6.12.67.

84. Untitled 1934

watercolour on paper, 23.5 x 30.5 cm, signed 'R. Wakelin 1934' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Joan Allen, Canberra.
Acquisition: from the owner's father Dr L. H. Allen, a friend of Wakelin's until his death in 1940.
As in most other watercolours Wakelin here remained concerned with structure and with depth. Despite the nature of the medium his approach to landscape using watercolours differed little from his approach in oils. The subject may have again been a scene from the foreshores of Sydney Harbour.

85. Towards Greenwich 1934

pulpboard, 45 x 54.9 cm, signed 'R. Wakelin 1934'

27; 1962 - "Australian Painting: Colonial,

Collection: Dr P. F. Burke, Melbourne.
Acquisition: from Toorak Galleries, Melb., 1969.
Exhibited: 1935 (June) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 30 as "Still Life with Bowl of Fruit"; 1969 - Toorak Galleries, cat. no. 15.

87. Street in Waverly 1934 (plate 53)

oil on board, 53.9 x 28.5 cm,
Collection: Mr W. B. Bolton, Bendigo, Victoria.
Acquisition: from "a commercial art gallery".
Exhibited: possibly 1934 - Macquarie Galleries
as "John Street", cat. no. 10.

88. Rooftops 1934

board, 45 x 53.6 cm,
unsigned and undated.
Collection: Ballarat Fine Art Gallery.

89. Portrait of AE.J.L.McDonnell 1935

pulpboard, 56 x 40.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1935' (l.l.)

Collection: Sydney University Union.

Acquisition: Formerly in McDonnell Collection.

Exhibited: 1935 (Oct.) - Society of Artists Annual Exhibition, cat. no. 128 ("kindly lent");
1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 56;
1961 - McDonnell Collection, Sydney University, cat. no. 7; 1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House, Sydney, no catalogue; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 47.

Reproduced: "The AE.J.L.McDonnell Collection", Art in Australia, 3,63 (May, 1936), p. 28;

McDonnell a great supporter of Wakelin and an avid collector of his art and that of other local artists. Technique of applying colour in long parallel strokes here is allied to that in Town Hall, North Sydney (cat. no. 92) - although Wakelin's brush technique varies much among the 1935 works as does his approach to his subjects.

90. Mount Wellington, Tasmania 1935 (plate 57)

board, 55.9 x 43.2 cm,

Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.

Acquisition: from the Macquarie Galleries, July, 1935.
Exhibited: 1935 (June) - Macquarie Galleries as "Mount Wellington", cat. no. 2.
Painted by Wakelin while on holiday in Tasmania. A fairly direct transcription of the scene with none of the reduction of form, the vigorous brush technique of earlier works. Wakelin's first painting to be purchased by a public gallery.

91. Portrait of Mrs Wakelin 1935 (plate 59)
pulpboard, 63.5 x 68.3 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 1935' (l.r.)
Collection: Dr Tess Rose, Melbourne.
Exhibited: 1961 - Archibald Competition, cat. no. 35; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 50; 1968 (May) - Toorak Gallery, cat. no. 1; 1969 (April-May) - Toorak Gallery, cat. no. 27.
One of Wakelin's few portraits to introduce associations above and beyond a straightforward depiction of the sitter. Mrs Wakelin is shown pointing for some reason at what looks like an illustration or perhaps a map resting on her knees while significance seems to have been attached to the view of part of Sydney Harbour at which she appears to be gazing through the background window.
92. Town Hall, North Sydney 1935 (plate 61)

pulpboard, 51 x 61.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 35' (l.l.)
Collection: Dr P. F. Burke, Melbourne.
Acquisition: from Leveson Street Gallery, Melbourne.

Verso: A still life, unsigned and undated, but fairly complete - painted in oils, same dimensions as Town Hall . . .
Predominantly pale, almost pastel scheme of colours here is rather unusual for Wakelin.
Allied to two works of the late 1920's - Bay Road Station and The Bridge Under Construction.

93. Portrait of Lloyd Rees c. 1935-6 (plate 58)

pulpboard, 43.2 x 30.4 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin' (l.l.), no date.
Collection: Mr Lloyd Rees.
Acquisition: from the artist.

Wakelin and Lloyd Rees were close friends almost from the time they met at Smith and Julius in 1917 to Wakelin's death in 1971. Primarily a painter of landscapes, Rees was among the few who supported Wakelin in his early preoccupation with 'modernist' ideals. The artist's treatment of the subject here is simple, straightforward. More attention has been given to capturing the light effects of the scene than to any radical pictorial analysis.
94. Railway Bridge 1935

board, 43.8 x 55.8 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 35' (l.l.)
Collection: Western Australian Art Gallery.
Acquisition: purchased from Toorak Gallery, Melbourne.
A sketch-like work emphasizing the simplicity and monumentality of the large concrete bridge.

95. Judith and Diana c. 1936

pulpboard, 32.3 x 45.1 cm,
unsigned.
Collection: Mrs Judith Murray.
Acquisition: from her father the artist.
Exhibited: possibly 1937 as "Sewing" - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 18; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 53.
Such 'intimate' pictures of family and friends were to become common among Wakelin's work from the mid 1930's on. Here Judith, the artist's daughter, is shown sewing while Diana (a friend) reads behind. Judith is about ten years old.

96. Fairy Tales 1936 (plate 69)

plywood, 61.5 x 40 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 36' (l.r.)
Collection: Professor Bernard Smith.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1972.
Exhibited: 1968 (May) - Toorak Gallery, Melb., cat. no. 34; 1969 (April-May) - Toorak Gallery,
cat. no. 45; 1972 (March-April) - "Roland Wakelin Memorial Exhibition", Macquarie Galleries,
cat. no. 10.
The artist's daughter, Judith, reading.

97. Portrait of Treania Smith 1936 (plate 60)
canvas, 75.4 x 60 cm,
Collection: Mrs Clive Bennett (Treania Smith)
Acquisition: from the artist, 1962.
Exhibited: 1936 (July) - Contemporary Group, Blaxland Galleries, cat. no. 22.
Treania Smith was a friend of Wakelin's and also co-partner of the Macquarie Galleries for a number of years.

98. Cannas 1936
board, 39.3 x 57.8 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1936' (l.r.)
Collection: Hinton Collection, Armidale Teachers College.
Acquisition: Acquired 10.1.38 by Howard Hinton and bequeathed to the College 1950-51.
Exhibited: 1937 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no.
7; 1942 - Loan Exhibiton, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 42.
99. Bridge At Waverton 1937

cardboard, 62.8 x 32.4 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 1937' (l.l.)
Collection: Macquarie Galleries,
Exhibited: 1961 - Macquarie Galleries (mixed exhib.), cat. no. 21; 1961 - McDonnell Collection, Sydney University, cat. no. 12; 1967 (April) - Darlinghurst Galleries (Arts Council), cat. no. 12.
Wakelin has again painted the concrete Sydney suburban Bridge from a rather unusual angle that emphasizes its monumentality in relation to the surrounding landscape. As opposed to the 1936 Railway Bridge, however, attention has been given here to landscape detail and to a more controlled brush technique.

100. The Fire-Place 1937

canvas, 55.2 x 45 cm,
Collection: Hinton Collection, Armidale Teachers College.
Acquisition: Acquired 10.1.38 by Howard Hinton and bequeathed to the College 1950-1.
Exhibited: 1937 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 22; 1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 15.
101. St. Mary's from Hyde Park  1937 (plate 66)
pulpboard,  40 x 55.2 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 37' (l.l.)
Collection:  Private Collection, Canberra.
Acquisition:  from Beth Mayne Studio, 1974.
Exhibited:  1970 (March) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 7.

102. Still Life with Pewter Pitcher  c. 1938 (plate 75) cardboard on masonite, 50.7 x 38.1 cm,
unsigned.
Collection:  Mrs Judith Murray.
Acquisition:  from the artist.
A sensitive response to the light and colour of an otherwise ordinary still life subject. Many of Wakelin's mature still lifes are among his most enjoyable pictures. Brush technique and application of paint here enliven surface while the rather 'unstable' positioning of pitcher and bowl creates formal interest and a feeling of potential movement.

103. Judith in Green  1938
pulpboard,  63.5 x 30.5 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 1938' (l.r.)
Collection:  University of Sydney.
Exhibited:  1939 (July) - Macquarie Galleries as "Arrangement in Terre Verte", cat. no. 27;

A rather intimate, penetrating, close-up portrait of Judith in three-quarter profile. Colours are dull, rather sombre, composition has been slightly flattened and paint applied in broad brush strokes.

104. Portrait of Clarice Young 1938 (plate 70)
pulpboard, 55.9 x 43.2 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1938' (l.r.)
Collection: Mrs Clarice Thomas.
Acquisition: gift of the artist, 1970.
Clarice Young, John Young's daughter - now Mrs Clarice Thomas and Director of the Manly Art Gallery, Sydney. The dating of this work may be wrong; Mrs Thomas believes Wakelin added the date much later and that it may have been painted in the early 1940's. She recalls she was knitting socks for the Armed Forces in Europe when the portrait was painted.

105. Still Life with John Young 1938 (plate 74)
pulpboard, 43.2 x 57.2 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 38' (l.l.)
Collection: Mr Donald Sutherland.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1971.
Introduction into a still life of such an anecdotal feature as the portrait of Wakelin's friend, John Young, is rather unusual and points to interests other than the purely formal and pictorial preoccupations of earlier still life paintings.

106. The New Road 1938

plywood, 43 x 56 cm,

Collection: Sydney University Union.

Acquisition: from the McDonnell Collection on loan to Sydney University until the owner's death in 1961.

Exhibited: 1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 8 as "Castle Hill"; 1961 (Feb.-March) - McDonnell Collection, Sydney University, cat. no. 37.

Among Wakelin's less outstanding pictures. A simple and direct, rather unimaginative transcription of the landscape set at Castle Hill, now an outer Sydney suburb, then a predominantly rural area.

107. The Bridge from Lavender Bay 1939 (plate 62)

pulpboard, 76.2 x 63.5 cm, signed 'R. Wakelin 39' (l.1.)

Collection: Mrs Joyce Orchard.

Acquisition: from Christopher Davis Antiques, 1967.

Exhibited: 1939 (July) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 1; 1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 46 as "The Bridge from North Sydney" (lent from McDonnell Collection); 1951 - "Jubilee Exhibition of Australian Art" (in Sydney, A.G.N.S.W., June-July), cat. no. 153 as "Bridge from North Sydney".

108. Interior  c. 1939 canvas on composition board, 45.7 x 55.8 cm, unsigned and undated.

Collection: Queensland Art Gallery.

Acquisition: Presented by Miss M.T.Treeweeke, 1939.

Exhibited: 1939 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 13.

109. Jug and Drapery  1939  (plate 76)

pulpboard, 49.5 x 37.4 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 1939' (l.l.)

Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.

Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1939.

Exhibited: 1939 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 15 as "Still Life with Terracotta Jug"; 1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 59.

110. Cloud Drama  1940

Collection: Miss Joan Allen, Canberra.

Acquisition: from her father, Dr L. H. Allen who knew Wakelin and acquired it from him in 1940. Exhibited: 1940 (July) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 17.

In this quick study Wakelin has dispensed with detail and a careful organization of the picture in an attempt to capture his immediate impressions. Forms are suggested rather than described, colours are naturalistic and paint thickly applied. It is quite opposed to the more 'considered' landscapes prevalent during this period.

111. Self Portrait  c. 1940  (plate 71)
pulpboard,  44 x 30.5 cm,
unsigned and undated
Collection: Dr P. F. Burke, Melbourne.
Acquisition: from Leveson Street Gallery, Melbourne.
Verso: "To certify is a painting of Roland Wakelin by Wakelin painted about 1940." signed E. Wakelin and witnessed by Douglas Watson, 12 April, 1972.

Wakelin's wife was perhaps basing the date of this painting on the age of the artist rather than on any stylistic grounds. Treatment of the face - the use of roughly suggested patches of tone to construct and to create areas of light and shade - is unusual for this time and may point to an earlier date, although it must be remembered that Wakelin's style varied much in the mature years. The work has little of the 'finish' or attention to detail of other contemporary paintings, but again its sombre colour scheme does. Born in 1887
Wakelin would here be in his fifties if the portrait was painted in the 1940's.

112. Iceland Poppies 1940 (plate 77)

paper on board, 50.7 x 76.2 cm,
Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1941.
Exhibited: 1941 (Oct.) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 5, as "Poppies"; 1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 26; 1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House, Sydney, no catalogue; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 59; 1970 - "Seventy Years of Australian Painting", Knox Grammar School, cat. no. 18 as "Poppies"; 1972 - Memorial Exhibition, Macquarie Galleries (lent by Miss Smith), cat. no. 16.

113. Galston Cottage 1940

cardboard, 15.6 x 21.7 cm,
Collection: Mrs W. J. Mendel.
Acquisition: from the artist.
Exhibited: possibly 1941 - Macquarie Galleries as "Cottage", cat. no. 36.
John Young's holiday cottage at Galston.
114. Interior at Pott's Point 1940
pulpboard, 65.4 x 55.8 cm,
Collection: David Sumner Gallery, Adelaide.
Again a rather intimate scene perhaps most outstanding for its warm red tones and glowing light effects. The picture depicts Wakelin's family in their Pott's Point home.

115. Kurrajong 1941
pulpboard, 24.5 x 32.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 41' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr and Mrs P. Rassmussen.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1971.
Exhibited: possibly 1941 - Macquarie Galleries as "Kurrajong Heights", cat. no. 10.

116. Galston Evening 1941
pulpboard on hardboard backing, 32 x 41 cm,
Collection: Mr Douglas Dundas.
Acquisition: gift of the artist, 1941.
Exhibited: 1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 44.
Again depicts John Young's house at Galston where Wakelin and his family were frequent visitors on weekends. The house was built by Young and designed by the artist, John D. Moore.

117. Judith in Blue 1941 (plate 73)

board, 75.5 x 50.2 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 41' (l.r.)
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased 27.2.42 from Macquarie Galleries.
Exhibited: 1941 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 1; 1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 4; 1951 - Bega Art Gallery; 1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House, no catalogue.
A rather 'romantic' portrait of Wakelin's daughter (aged 15). Emphasis has been given to the softening effects of light on form and outline and on colour.

118. The Quarry 1941

canvas, 44.4 x 55.9 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 41' (l.l.)
Collection: Howard Hinton Collection, Armidale Teachers College.
Acquisition: Acquired by Hinton 13.11.41 and bequeathed to the College 1950-1.

119. Stormy Sunset 1942

pulpboard, 54.2 x 41.1 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 42' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1943.
Exhibited: 1943 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 4; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 64.

During the mature years Wakelin became increasingly interested in painting various cloud and light effects purely for their own sake - their own beauty - rather than in pursuit of some formal or technical objective. This work, with its dramatic cloud and glowing light is a typical example although brush technique is more vigorous than in most paintings of the period.

120. Interior 1942 (plate 72)
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased from the Macquarie Galleries, May 1942.
Exhibited: 1942 - Loan Exhibition, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 57; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 61.
Judith at the piano in the Wakelins' Neutral Bay home. (The artist's keen interest in music was inherited by his daughter.) Here light and colour interests are similar to the 1941 Judith in Blue.
121. House in Wycombe Road 1942
pulpboard, 55.4 x 42.6
Collection: Mrs Clive Bennett.
Acquisition: from the present owner's parents who were given it by the artist in 1942.

123. Crepuscule 1942
hardboard, 54.2 x 41.1 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 1942' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries.
Exhibited: 1942 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 1; 1960 - "Pioneer Contemporaries", Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 33; 1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House, no catalogue; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 62.
A winter sunset over the water. Again reflects Wakelin's interest in the dramatic, the romantic aspects of nature perhaps untypical of the conventional way of seeing and interpreting (pictorially) the Australian landscape. Colours are rich and warm, brush work strong and expressive.
124. De Mestre's House 1943 (plate 64)

board, 35 x 45.2 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 43' (l.l.)
Collection: Mrs Clive Bennett.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1943.

hardboard, 44.8 x 55.3 cm,
Collection: Newcastle City Art Gallery.
Acquisition: Presented by Miss Lucy Swanton, 1961.

126. St. Phillip's, Church Hill 1943 (plate 67)

One of many landscapes painted in the Ryde area - a favourite painting spot of the Northwood Group of painters (the group to which Wakelin belonged during the 1940's and 1950's and which also included Lloyd Rees and George Lawrence).

Exhibited: 1946 (March) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 22.

133. River Road 1946 canvas on pulpboard on three-ply, 55.7 x 76 cm,
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased by the Director from the Macquarie Galleries 22.3.46.
Exhibited: 1946 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 13; 1960 (August-Oct.) - Bathurst Art Gallery; 1965 - Stanton Library, North Sydney ("A day with the North Shore Gallery Society").
A rather literal transcription of the scene. Limited, rather restrained tones. River Road is situated in the Lane Cove area of Sydney.

134. Maori-Bank, New Zealand 1947
masonite, 42.8 x 55.2 cm,
Collection: Miss Jean Poole.

Wakelin visited New Zealand for a few weeks during 1947 and several landscapes depicting areas of the North Island resulted from this visit.

135. Sunday Drive, Upper Hutt 1947
hardboard, 44 x 57 cm,
Collection: Mr and Mrs P. Rassmussen.
Acquisition: from Artarmon Galleries, 1970.
Upper Hutt is situated in the southern area of New Zealand's North Island.

136. Ryde Landscape 1947 (plate 65)
board, 43.2 x 55.6 cm,
Collection: Western Australian Art Gallery.
Acquisition: from the artist, 1948.
Reproductions: "Landscape into Paint", Western Australian Art Gallery, 1962, plate 10 (colour); The Western Australian Art Gallery Monthly Feature, 4,21 (Sept., 1967).
As in other paintings of this area Wakelin delighted in capturing light effects and in using warm, earthy tones. The ochre under-painting of the sky area is deliberately left partly exposed (as in a number of other landscapes from the 1940's) helping to lighten and break up the large expanse of sky while at the same time linking it with the earth below.

137. St. Anne's Church, Ryde 1947

cardboard, 42.7 x 55.3 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 47' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr and Mrs P. Rasmussen.
Acquisition: from Artarmon Galleries, 1970.
Exhibited: 1947 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, cat. no. 29.

138. Pastoral 1947

pulpboard, 43.2 x 55.9 cm,
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Exhibited: 1947 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, cat. no. 31; 1953 - The Conservatorium, Sydney; 1961 - Tamworth City Council; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 68.
139. Portrait of Judith 1948

Collection: Mrs Judith Murray.
Acquisition: from the artist.
Exhibited: 1949 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition as "Judith", cat. no. 53.
A rather conventionally treated portrait of Wakelin's daughter. Brushwork is comparatively fine, controlled. Particular attention has been given to the details of hands, face and dress. Competently handled but lacks the 'vitality' of earlier portraits.

140. Breezy Day at North Ryde 1948 (illus. xiii)

cardboard, 43 x 55.4 cm,
Collection: National Gallery of Victoria.
Acquisition: 1948.
Exhibited: 1948 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, cat. no. 41; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 70.
141. Kiama 1948

hardboard, 43.2 x 55.8 cm,
Collection: Mr George Lawrence.
Acquisition: from the artist.
Exhibited: 1948 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, cat. no. 44; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 71.

Again, as much attention has been given to the depiction of sky and clouds as to the landscape below. Wakelin's interpretation of this scene - a seaside resort on the New South Wales south coast - is perhaps more English than Australian in his emphasis on cloud effects and interest in a wintry, dapplied light and restricted, sober tones.

142. Near Kiama c. 1948-9

pulpboard, 42 x 64 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin' (l.r.), no date.
Collection: Mr Steven Wilson.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1970.
Exhibited 1971 - Leveson Street Gallery, Melbourne as "Near Kiama 1950", cat. no. 5.

As opposed to no. 141, colours in this scene of Kiama are vivid, brighter, and brushstrokes more lively. It has the sunny freshness that Kiama certainly lacks although both works may have been painted during the same period - probably while Wakelin was on holiday in the area in 1948.
Still Life 1948

hardboard, 41 x 54.2 cm,
Collection: Mr Dennis Ryan.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1972.
Exhibited: 1949 (April) - Macquarie Galleries,
cat. no. 10.
An unusually sober treatment of a still life subject. Colours are dull, rather sombre (limited to predominantly brown and red tones), while forms have been flattened and any lighting virtually ignored. Wakelin appears to have been most interested in the formal pattern created by the arrangement of fruit and jug than in the objects themselves.

Kiama 1949 (plate 88)
pulpboard, 25.2 x 33.8 cm,
Collection: Miss Elsie Stewart.
Acquisition: purchased from the artist, 1966.
Exhibited: 1949 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 5;
1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House, Sydney, no catalogue; 1967 - Retrospective,
A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 72.
Yet another quite different scene of Kiama.
Wakelin has, I think, managed to successfully capture, through brushwork, the stormy, windswept quality of the scene. Probably painted during the 1949 Xmas holiday period.
145. Old House at North Ryde 1949 (?)
canvas, 43.2 x 55.9 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 49' (l.r.)
Collection: Melbourne University.
Acquisition: purchased from McDonnell Collection from funds under C.D. Lloyd Trust, 1966.
Exhibited: A work of the same name and lent from the McDonnell Collection was exhibited in the Society of Artists Exhibition (cat. no. 30), but in 1947. This painting was purchased from the McDonnell Collection and as it is unlikely the collection contained two works of the same subject we may perhaps conjecture that this was in fact the work exhibited in 1947 and that its dating is therefore incorrect. Wakelin signed many paintings some years after their completion and this often necessitated a certain amount of guesswork as to their dates. Such may have been the case with Old House at North Ryde - which would perhaps explain its misdating.
An extremely colourful painting. Wakelin has used warm reds, oranges, purples to create effects of heat and bright sunlight. Colours are abstract, exaggerated, and forms reduced, almost geometric. Such preoccupations were unusual for Wakelin in later years although his use of colour perhaps foreshadows a general heightening of colour evident during the 1950's.
146. Morning on the Yarra
c. 1950
(plate 79)
linen on pulpboard, 53.3 x 70 cm,
unsigned
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Exhibitions: 1950 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, cat. no. 54.

147. The Sandstone Cliff 1950 oil on masonite, 42.8 x 55.5 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 50' (l.l.)
Collection: University of Sydney.
Acquisition: presented by Miss Lucy Swanton, May, 1960.
Exhibited: 1950 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 12; 1960 (May) - "The Swanton Collection", War Memorial Gallery of Fine Arts, Sydney University, cat. no. 17 (dated 1954 ?).

'Cezannesque' in colouring (earthy tones) but 'Constable' in mood (sombre, a little foreboding). Perhaps typical of many works of this period, but without the light effects that so interested the artist in later years and that heightened the romantic, sometimes lyrical nature of these paintings.
148. Winter Sunshine 1950

board, 42.8 x 55.8 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 50' (l.r.)
Collection: Art Gallery of South Australia.
Acquisition: purchased 1951 (Morgan Thomas Bequest).
Primary interest here has been in capturing the play of light on form and in the contrast between light and shade areas. Paint is broadly and thickly applied achieving impasto-like effects that also enhance depth and highlight form. Interest in the sharp contrast of light and shade unusual for Wakelin in the mature years when he was concerned more with muted or glowing light effects of evening or a cloudy day.

149. The Frying Pan Island, Berriedale 1951

cardboard, 43.2 x 55.8 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 51' (l.l.)
Collection: Tasmanian Art Gallery.
Acquisition: purchased by the Trustees, Feb., 1951.
I have not seen this painting and therefore cannot comment on its treatment of the subject. It is one of two Wakelins (known to me) in the Tasmania Gallery.
150. Hutt Valley, New Zealand 1951 (plate 80)
canvas on board, 40 x 50.5 cm,
Collection: Miss Jean Poole.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1960's.
Exhibited: possibly 1968 (May) - Toorak Gallery, Melbourne, as "In the Hutt Valley", cat. no. 30.
Wakelin visited New Zealand (Wellington) for three months in December, 1951. The Hutt Valley is situated in the southern end of the North Island. A lush, rich area as can be seen from Wakelin's depiction of the landscape.

151. New Zealand Landscape 1951
pulpboard, 43.2 x 55.8 cm,
Collection: Miss Grace Cossington Smith.
Acquisition: from the Macquarie Galleries.
Exhibited: 1960 - "Pioneer Contemporaries", Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 38 as "Road in Tasmania, 1951" (lent by Miss Smith).
The title of this painting has never been verified by Wakelin, but as he visited not Tasmania but New Zealand in 1951 it seems likely that this is one of the landscapes painted while in that country (this would have been in December, 1951) - the landscapes of both areas are, after all, rather similar. As Wakelin visited his brother in Wellington for some time while in New Zealand this particular work may also depict a scene from the Hutt Valley area which includes Wellington and its environs. The scenery is certainly consistent with that of the Valley landscape.

152. The Ferry 1952 (illus. xiv)
board, 54.9 x 75.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 52' (l.l.)
Collection: Art Gallery of South Australia.
Acquisition: purchased 1952 from a Government Grant.

153. Old House at North Ryde 1952 (plate 81)
canvas on board, 42.5 x 52.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 52' (l.l.)
Collection: Miss Jean Poole.

154. Still Life with Black Bottle 1953 (plate 94)
pulpboard, 43 x 56 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 53' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Elsie Stewart.
Exhibited: 1952 (May) - Contemporary Art Society as "Still Life", cat. no. 144; 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 75.
155. Yarra Valley, Summer 1953

canvas, 71 x 91.5 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 53' (1.1.)
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased by the Trustees 26.2.54 from the artist.
Exhibited: 1953 - Wynne Competition, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 6.
Perhaps may be classed as a more typical landscape of the mature period particularly of those of the 1950's. Light is mellow, golden, suffused; forms rounded and softened and great importance has been attached to the large mass of cloudy sky above the landscape. It is interesting to compare such an interpretation of an Australian summer scene with the usual emphasis given to bright, dazzling light, heat, blue skies etc. Wakelin was never interested in the Streeton/Roberts interpretation of the Australian landscape which determined so many future interpretations by other artists.

156. Carthona 1954 (plate 92)

hardboard, 41.5 x 64.7 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 54' (1.1.)
Collection: Mrs Joyce Orchard.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, March, 1968.

157. The Green Boat

41.9 x 55.2 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin' (1.1.) no date.
Collection: Bendigo Art Gallery, Victoria.
Acquisition: purchased from Macquarie Galleries, 1954.
Exhibited: 1954 (Sept.) - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 10.

158. St. Peter's, Watson's Bay  c. 1954 (illus. xvi) pencil on paper, 18.5 x 20 cm (approx.),
   unsigned and undated.
Collection: features in one of Wakelin's sketch books held by the Macquarie Galleries, Sydney.
A preliminary sketch for the large scale oil that followed (cat. no. 159). Wakelin's sketches were generally simple and direct, a pictorial record of a particular scene rather than an imaginative interpretation of it.

159. St. Peter's, Watson's Bay  1954 (plate 82)
   hardboard, 81.2 x 55.4 cm,
Collection: National Gallery of Victoria.
Acquisition: 1954 from the Society of Artists.
160. Lake Eucumbene 1954

pulpboard, 24.5 x 32.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 54' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr and Mrs P. Rassmussen.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1971.
A small, sketch-like work probably painted on the spot. Lake Eucumbene is situated in the Snowy Mountains catchment area of N.S.W.

161. Sydney Waterfront 1955 (illus. xv)

masonite, 74.2 x 95.8 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 55' (l.r.)
Collection: Western Australia Art Gallery.
Acquisition: purchased from the artist via the Exhibited: 1955 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, cat. no. 60.

162. South Coast Road 1955 (plate 83)

canvas on pulpboard, 42.5 x 52.5 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 55' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Jean Poole.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1966.
During the 1950's Wakelin's colours became generally brighter (he now used pure colours extensively), more intense and his use of them more varied. South Coast Road is a good example of this renewed interest in colour applied in short, undisguised strokes that lighten and enliven without destroying the character of the landscape forms. Less interest has been shown in depicting detail here than in many paintings of these years.

163. Landscape with Prunus Tree c. 1955

pulpboard, 30.5 x 40 cm,
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, Canberra, 1972.
The quality of the artist's work varied greatly during the later years and such quality seems to have depended often on the nature of the scene being depicted. The rather 'ordinary' scene pictured here perhaps failed to provide Wakelin with enough real inspiration for him to be able to imaginatively transform or enliven it. As a consequence, the work, I think, figures among his less successful paintings.

164. From Observatory Hill 1956 (plate 85)

hardboard, 55.7 x 76 cm,
Collection: Mrs Joyce Orchard.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio
Exhibited: 1956 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, cat. no. 25.
Again reflects Wakelin's renewed interest in colour, bright and often pure, juxtaposed on the painting's surface rather than blended. The result is an almost impressionist effect that is related to the artist's earliest paintings (c.1915).
As always, however, forms remain substantial, solidly drawn - perhaps a little at odds with the broken paintwork of their surfaces.

165. The Showground Tower from Centennial Park 1956 (plate 86)

pulpboard on cardboard backing, 39.8 x 54.8 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 56' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Elsie Stewart.
Acquisition: from the Wakelin Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., 1967.
Exhibited: 1967 - Retrospective, cat. no. 78.
An unusually lyrical and evocative work. Colours and forms are softened, muted, detail has been eliminated and paintwork is relatively smooth. Probably painted at twilight. Centennial Park is a large recreational park near the heart of Sydney.

166. Greenwich (England) 1957

pulpboard on cardboard backing, 32 x 23.7 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 57' (l.r.)
Collection: Miss Beth Mayne (private)
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries, 1957.
Wakelin's visit to England, France, Holland and Italy for about seven months in 1956-7 resulted in a number of oil sketches including this and the following work. The trip appears to have had no obvious impact on his painting style or his interpretation of his subjects; Wakelin remained largely immune to contemporary trends in later life.

167. Santa Maria Della Salute (Venice) 1957

cardboard, 21.9 x 32 cm,
Collection: Miss Elsie Stewart.
Like many other artists before him Wakelin was primarily concerned here with capturing the unique Venetian light effects - in this case the golden glow of twilight over the famous church built in the mid seventeenth century by Longhena.

168. Sydney Harbour 1957 (plate 87)

board, 68.5 x 76 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 57' (l.r.)
Collection: National Art Gallery of Malaysia.

169. The Bridge 1958 (plate 93)

masonite, 71.1 x 91.5 cm,
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: Purchased by the Trustees from the Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, 12.8.58.
170. Still Life with Blue Jar 1958

pulpboard, 50.8 x 60.8 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 58' (l.r.)
Collection: Mrs W. T. Craig.
Acquisition: from the artist, 1958.
Exhibited: 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 82.

A rather hastily painted still life with seemingly little regard for composition or formal arrangement. As in many other later still life paintings Wakelin has been guided here by a spontaneous urge to record the objects before him — a bowl of fruit, bottle, book, pipe and the rather mysterious looking blue jar — in paint, not by any of the formal considerations as equally important in his earlier works. Colours are a little 'muddy' and composition, with its emphasis on horizontality, rather static. The picture perhaps reflects the shortcomings of Wakelin's lack of discrimination in his choice of subjects for painting in the mature years.

171. Double Bay 1958 (plate 84)

Collection: Mrs Joyce Orchard.
Acquisition: from Wakelin's studio through his agent, Beth Mayne.
Double Bay is a harbour-side suburb of Sydney in which Wakelin lived 1955-67.
172. Portrait of Mrs Craig 1959
masonite, 63.2 x 48 cm,
Collection: Mrs W. T. Craig.
Acquisition: from the artist, 1969.
Not exhibited.
Mrs Craig was a friend of Wakelin's and a great admirer of his work. However, Wakelin's portraits, particularly those of later years were not generally as successful as his landscapes or many of the still lifes. Carefully drawn and rather unimaginatively depicted this particular portrait is a case in point. Wakelin's straightforward technique, his choice of colours adds little to his interpretation of the sitter's personality.

173. Headland Rocks 1959
cardboard, 30 x 40 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 59' (l.l.)
Collection: Mr Steven Wilson.
Acquisition: from Macquarie Galleries.
Not exhibited.
A quickly sketched work with paint spontaneously and roughly applied and forms 'suggested' rather than described. Such an approach was unusual for Wakelin and opposed to the controlled brushwork and careful drawing of many contemporary paintings. It may have been intended originally as a study for a larger picture. The subject - a close-up view of a large rock outcrop - is also unusual for Wakelin who tended to concentrate on more open, broader views.
174. Still Life with Gladiolis and Agapanthus 1960
masonite, 56.4 x 44.3 cm,
Collection: Mr and Mrs P. Rassmussen.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1971.
Not exhibited.
One of Wakelin's more formally successful and more colourful later still lifes. Composition is primarily vertical, but the surface has been enlivened by a crisp application of paint that relieves the otherwise static nature of this painting (this is also aided by a slight 'tilting' of objects in the picture). Colours are warm and the play of light and shadow relieves an otherwise plain background.

175. Manly Beach 1960 (plate 91)
pulpboard, 41.5 x 54.4 cm,
signed 'R. Wakelin 60' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr Frank Coe.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studio, 1970.
Exhibited: 1962 - "Tribute to Roland Wakelin", Wales House (Art Council), no catalogue.
As Wakelin's paintings became more personal during the mature years his interest in painting the human figure - usually that of family or friends
- also increased. However Wakelin's figures are never particularly successful as I think is demonstrated here. They are always a little too rigid, too clumsily drawn and perhaps a little too childlike to be convincing.
176. Woolloomooloo 1960 (plate 89)

Cardboard mounted on hardboard, 48 x 63 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 60' (l.r.)

Collection: Mrs W. T. Craig.

Acquisition: from the artist.

Not exhibited.

This particular view looks across Woolloomooloo (in the heart of Sydney) to St. Mary's Cathedral in Hyde Park. Emphasis has been placed on a primarily horizontal diminishment of form and a close, compact composition. The viewpoint is unusual but succeeds well in capturing (perhaps a little too romantically) the character of this old and once crowded inner city suburb. The area is now being extensively redeveloped.

177. Roadside Market 1962

Collection: Mr B. S. Andrew, Bendigo, Victoria.

Acquisition: purchased from Artarmon Galleries, Sydney.

Exhibited: 1962 - Macquarie Galleries, cat. no. 10.

A rather naive interpretation of the scene. The style is Wakelin's own; he is interested primarily in recording the scene in paint not in analysing it for formal or pictorial reasons.

178. Terrace Houses, Double Bay 1963 (plate 96)

Pulpboard, 45.5 x 64.5 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 63' (1.1.)
Collection: Dr P. P. Burke.
Acquisition: from Toorak Gallery, Melbourne.
Exhibited: 1967 - Retrospective, A.G.N.S.W., cat. no. 87; 1969 - Toorak Gallery, cat. no. 38.
The slightly banal, perhaps too rigid depiction of houses in this picture is compensated for by the warm light effects that create an almost 'other worldly' atmosphere of stillness and softness. (Wakelin was, at this stage, living at Double Bay).

179. The Argyle Cut 1963 (plate 90)
cardboard, 48.2 x 63.4 cm,
Collection: Mrs W. T. Craig.
Acquisition: from the artist, 1963.
Due to his age and gradually worsening health Wakelin's trips to the countryside during the last years of his life were fewer than previously. Consequently those works painted in the last decade were largely of scenes situated in or around Sydney or of still lifes. The Argyle Cut was an old residential and light industrial area in the heart of Sydney and is significant today for its historical importance. Once again the directness of Wakelin's approach gives his interpretation an almost child-like simplicity that may be seen, I think, as part of his aging process and perhaps a natural weakening of artistic powers.
180. Still Life with Jug and Apples  c. 1964 (plate 95) pasteboard, 56 x 43.2 cm,
unsigned
Collection: Art Gallery of N.S.W.
Acquisition: purchased by the Gallery Trustees 29.4.67 from the Macquarie Galleries.
Exhibited: 1967 (April) - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 90.
(Wakelin) - "1964 would be right. Painted in our kitchen here at 10 William Street - white enamelled table top." - to Daniel Thomas, Art Gallery of N.S.W., 6.12.67.
A beautiful still life, static yet at the same time vital, almost classical in its stillness and simplicity.

181. Evening at Werri  1965 (plate 97)
pulpboard, 30.4 x 40.6 cm,
signed 'R.Wakelin 65' (l.r.)
Collection: Mr Lloyd Rees.
Exhibited: 1965 - Society of Artists Spring Exhibition, cat. no. 44.
Perhaps a typical example of Wakelin's almost romantic interest in depicting various light effects in the later years of his life. His technique in the 1960's of applying colour in thick, drawn-out strokes and his extensive use of yellows has here been developed to its fullest extent.
182. Near Werri Beach c. 1965

watercolour on paper, 24 x 29 cm,
Collection: Dr. John MacDonald.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studios, 22.5.71
Wakelin's treatment of the landscape here is unusual especially in view of his other carefully constructed and organized watercolours. Colour - dark, heavy, almost glowing - is applied quickly in thick, broad brushstrokes that schematically suggest the landscape forms. Wakelin has been interested less in a detailed depiction than in conveying colour, atmosphere and light. Such interests were also a major preoccupation in the preceding Evening at Werri painted while the artist was holidaying in the area (south coast of N.S.W.).

183. Regatta 1966

board, 84.5 x 104 cm,
Collection: Commonwealth Collection, Canberra (now in overseas post).
Acquisition: from the artist, 1967.
Exhibited: 1966 - W.D. and H.O. Wills Art Prize; 1967 - Retrospective, Art Gallery of N.S.W., cat. no. 96.
Waklein's interest in and enjoyment of Sydney Harbour never faded. Here crisp colours and lively brushstrokes succeed in conveying very well the excitement of a sailing race on the harbour. Although 79 Wakelin was still capable of producing paintings as vitally alive as those of younger years.

184. Still Life with Green Bottle 1968

pasteboard, 56 x 43.4 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 68' (l.l.)
Collection: Beth Mayne Studios for Wakelin's estate.
A carefully organized still life of fruit and wine bottles, 'Cezannesque' in its distortion of form and exaggerated tilting of planes, but lacking the informality and vitality of earlier still life paintings produced under a similar influence.

185. Hydrangeas c. 1968 (plate 98) pasteboard on cardboard backing, 46.2 x 35.5 cm, signed 'R.Wakelin 68-69' (l.l.)

Collection: Mrs Joyce Orchard.
Acquisition: from Beth Mayne Studios, Jan., 1969.
Although Wakelin continued to paint until his death in 1971 he produced relatively few paintings in the last three or four years of his life. This particular still life figures among these last works - and, in its spontaneity and liveliness, testifies to the artist's unfailing love of nature and of painting (despite worsening eyesight).
